Nixon Meets With Businessmen

Market Turns Bullish

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, in its worst slump in over two decades, turned bullish Wednesday and racked up its biggest single-day gain ever on the Dow Jones average.

The Dow average of 30 industrial stocks skyrocketed 32.04 points to 663.20. The former record closing gain was 32.03 points set on Nov. 26, 1963. The Dow average has registered daily price fluctuations since 1896.

The New York Stock Exchange tape ran one minute late at the close. It was the second heaviest trading day this year with 17.46 million shares changing hands. The heaviest day was March 25 when 17.5 million shares were traded.

The American Stock Exchange price index scored its largest single-day jump since it was initiated in October of 1962. It galloped ahead 0.60 to 19.96.

Advances outpaced declines by 1,100 issues on the New York Stock Exchange.

The stock market's record-breaking upsurge came too late in the day, however, to bolster prices in most of the world's major stock exchanges.

Stock prices closed either slightly lower or mixed on most foreign stock markets. The only exceptions were the Montreal and Toronto exchanges. The Toronto industrial index surged ahead 4.60 points to 146.21. The Montreal market moved higher in all sectors.

Analysts said there were no specific news developments to account for the spectacular gain. They had been anticipating a sizable rally for days because of heavy selling during the past few weeks. They said eager investors would be drawn into the market by the exceptionally low prices prevailing. "Prices had been going down without interruption at a rate that was idiotic," said John W. Schulz, a partner in the New York brokerage firm of Abraham & Co. "The market has been panicky and irrational. The idea that stocks are too cheap eventually penetrates even an irrational market."

"This rally is not so terribly breathtaking," he said. "We've been losing at a rate of 10 to 20 points a day. At that rate, what the hell does a 30-point rally mean?"

The huge gain wiped out Tuesday's 10-point loss and a 20-point loss on Monday, the biggest drop on the Dow average since President Kennedy's assassination. The shove to 663.20 pulled the average out of the eight-year low level where it had sunk Tuesday. Excluding Monday and Tuesday, the Dow average now has not been as low since March 1, 1963 when it stood at 659.72.

In Washington, President Nixon invited 40 national business and financial leaders to the White House Wednesday night for a closed discussion of the faltering economy, the stock market and the disputed military operations in Cambodia.

He met during the morning with four key economic advisers—the heads of the Treasury Department, the council of Economic Advisers and the Budget Bureau plus the chairman of the quasi-independent Federal Reserve Board.

Some observers attributed the sharp gain to hopes Nixon would suggest some positive action during his meeting with financiers, but Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the discussion would concern "economic policies which we have discussed frequently."

Nixon is faced with rising pressure for some sort of effort to exert direct influence on wage and price increases.

Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, emphatically rejected mandatory price and wage controls at a Los Angeles news conference Tuesday and said he sees little merit in voluntary measures.

James R. Schlesinger, acting deputy director of the Budget Bureau, said Wednesday morning his agency had not been called on as yet to study the cost and economic impact of price and wage controls.

But within Congress the pressure is growing fueled by Democratic dissatisfaction with the Republican administration and the approaching congressional elections.

A House subcommittee approved Tuesday a bill to require the CEA to set price and wage guidelines each year. And Wednesday a group of House Democrats said they are drafting legislation to give Nixon standby authority to stabilize wages, prices, salaries and rents at mid-May levels.

NATO Plans Talks With Soviet Bloc

ROME (AP) — The United States and its North Atlantic allies announced Wednesday they may meet with the Soviet bloc in a general conference on European security if exploratory talks indicate promise.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers in the past has opposed suggestions of the Soviet Union and the other Warsaw Pact nations for such a conference. The United States and the 14 other North Atlantic Treaty nations insist that careful preparations be made in advance.

The announcement came in the final communiqué issued after two days of NATO meetings. The semiannual top level session of the North Atlantic Council ended in the Palazzo Dei Congressi as a Communist-led demonstration against it was gathering in the city.

The allies said if progress is recorded in preliminary negotiations—especially those now going on about Berlin and Germany—they would be ready to make multilateral contacts.

On a suggestion by Britain, the communiqué added that a permanent body might be one way of handling the negotiations.

During the discussion, British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart said deputy foreign ministers of the seven Communist Warsaw Pact states now are in conference in the Polish capital.

Italian Foreign Minister Aldo Moro was asked to transmit NATO's communiqué and its accompanying declaration on the project for an East-West program of mutual balanced force reductions. The implication was that the allies would like to have their documents considered by the Communists powers in their Warsaw parley.

It was left open whether the Rome government will serve as a clearing house for the Communist responses.

The allied governments hope that by the time of their year-end ministerial conference Dec. 3 in Brussels they will be in a position to decide upon the next steps in light of Eastern responses.

The declaration renewing an offer to negotiate mutual balanced force reductions carried the names of only 14 member governments. France stayed out because it has quit NATO's military system. The Italian government facing an election campaign under fierce left-wing pressure, again was assigned the task of probing Eastern reactions.

Dramatizing this pressure, thousands of youths spilled into the streets of Rome and Milan Wednesday night carrying banners with anti-NATO slogans.

In Rome, 2,000 youngsters were armed with rocks and clubs, but there was no immediate violence. In Milan 13,000 dragged an American flag with a swastika daubed across it. Again there was no violence.

Lebanon To Crack Down On Raiders

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — The Lebanese Cabinet decided Wednesday to crack down on Arab guerrillas operating in southern Lebanon, but delayed a decision on whether to ask help from Morocco and Tunisia in defending the nation from Israeli attacks.

An Israeli patrol entered southern Lebanon for the third straight day of action against guerrillas and Arab-Israeli fighting flared on the Jordanian and Egyptian fronts.

Ministerial sources in Beirut said the army will be empowered beginning June 15 to fire on any Arab guerrilla carrying a weapon in a Lebanese town or city or caught firing across the border from Lebanon into Israel.

The Al Fatah guerrilla organization took a wait-and-see attitude toward the government's decisions. "We also want to enforce the Cairo agreement to the letter," an Al Fatah spokesman said. "But the provisions binding on the Lebanese government must also be enforced, not only those binding on us."

U.S. Appeals Court Axes Busing Plans

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has overturned a school desegregation plan requiring massive busing in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg County, N.C., school district. It said the "test of reasonableness" should be applied to any plan for integration.

In a 4-2 opinion Wednesday, the court held that "not every school in a unitary school system need be integrated," and said it was "favorably impressed" by the U.S. Justice Department's argument to that effect at the April 9 hearing on the case.

The court remanded the case to Judge James B. McMillan of the Eastern District of North Carolina with instructions to have the Charlotte-Mecklenburg County school board draw up a new assignment plan for its elementary grades by June 30.

In doing so, the Appeals Court suggested, the board should consult the U.S. Office of Education for guidance. Some busing in the new plan probably would be necessary, the court said, "and our remand should not be interpreted to prohibit all busing."

"Busing is a permissible tool for achieving integration," the court said, "but it is not a panacea."

In Charlotte, there were immediate indications that Negro plaintiffs in the case might appeal the 4th Circuit Court decision to the U.S. Supreme Court.

"I wouldn't be surprised if there weren't some people trotting to the Supreme Court ... We felt and argued that what Judge McMillan did was right," said Adam Stein, partner in the Charlotte law firm that handled the original suit for the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund.

William Poe, chairman of the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Board of Education, said the circuit court decision "would eliminate the part of Judge McMillan's plan that has been most objectionable to local people."

Underlining the sharp cleavage of judicial sentiment in the case, the 4th Circuit Court judges very nearly arrived at a 3-3 standoff.

Joining Judge John D. Butzner Jr. in the majority opinion were Chief Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. and Judges Herbert S. Boreman and Albert V. Bryan. Bryan dissented in part, but said he would join Butzner, Haynsworth and Boreman "for the sake of creating a clear majority for the decision to remand."

Judges Simon E. Sobeloff and Harrison L. Winter dissented fully. Sobeloff assailed the Nixon administration's position in the case—voiced by the Justice Department at the April hearing here—as "vague and noncommittal" and charged that the "test of reasonableness" will create a subjective loophole which foot-dragging school boards "can be expected to exploit ... to the hilt."

Seek Court Test For School Pledge

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Maryland, the state that gave the Star-Spangled Banner to the nation, is taking the controversy over compulsory school patriotic exercise to the courts.

Gov. Marvin Mandel signed a bill Tuesday that requires public schoolteachers to lead their classes in the Pledge of Allegiance. At the same time he recommended a court test.

"I don't think you can dictate or legislate patriotism," he declared.

The governor said he was signing the measure so it could be settled once and for all in the courts rather than make the rounds in the legislature again next year.

The bill, an emergency measure, normally would take effect immediately, but a Circuit Court judge issued a 10-day order delaying its effectiveness.

Judge Matthew S. Evans will hear arguments in a suit filed against the compulsory patriotic exercise by an Anne Arundel County schoolteacher.

The only persons excused from the pledge under the new law are students or teachers who object on religious grounds. A spokesman for the State Department of Education said he expects no drastic alterations of schedules or other problems if the law is upheld.

He noted the state law already requires the Pledge of Allegiance and the Star-Spangled Banner to be incorporated into patriotic exercises that are to be conducted in each school "from time to time."

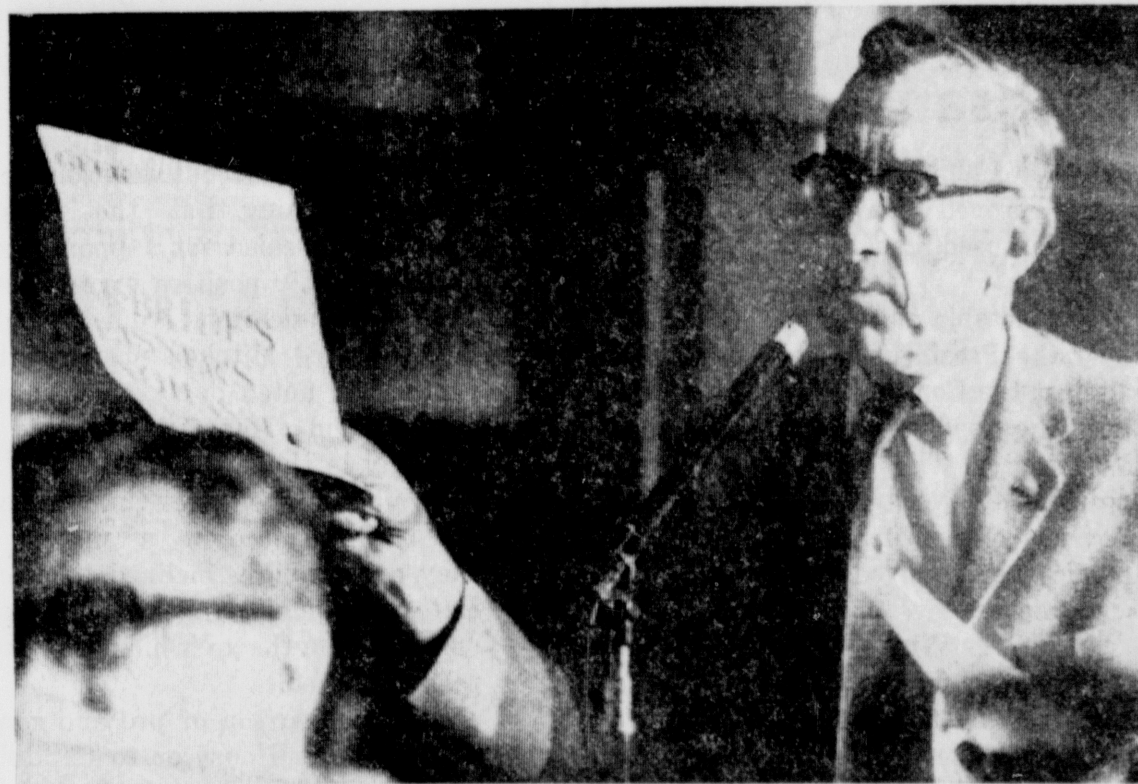

The difference between the old and new law is that until now the patriotic requirement has been general and haphazardly enforced. The measure just signed stipulates that the pledge must be said at the start of every day by every class and spells out each detail of the ceremony.

The bill, passed overwhelmingly by the 1970 Maryland Legislature, developed from a Baltimore teacher's refusal to lead his elementary school class in the flag pledge.

Lobbying for the legislation were six veterans groups. They were opposed by the American Civil Liberties Union and various pupil and teacher functions.

Take Secrecy Wraps Off Cambodian Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department Wednesday took the secrecy wraps off President Nixon's official finding that supplying arms to Cambodia "will strengthen the security of the United States and promote world peace."

The document backed Sen. J. W. Fulbright's charge that the formal presidential determination okaying weapons for Cambodia was made retroactive, nearly a month after the first arms delivery to Phnom Penh.

The first shipment, officials said, was captured Communist AK47 rifles delivered April 22. The date of the formal presidential determination spelling out legal authority for military aid to Cambodia was May 21.

State Department officials said that while normally a formal determination is prepared for the President in advance of extending new arms aid, the White House has on past occasions okayed arms shipments pending the completion of time-consuming paperwork. They said this has been done in quick-developing situations, such as in Cambodia.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, had called on Secretary of State William P. Rogers to make the presidential determination document public.

The Arkansas Democrat, a critic of Nixon's Southeast Asia policy, had charged the administration with "disdain for true consultation with the Congress on foreign policy matters."

He noted that the foreign aid law required that the President report to Congress on decisions extending new military assistance. He said Congress, in enacting this legal proviso, did not intend merely "to provide the President with a legal justification for an action—after he had already acted."

The document bearing Nixon's signature, as made public by the State Department, said that Nixon was acting in accord with a recommendation by the secretary of state dated May 15. The presidential determination, dated May 21, was listed as "effective as of April 22," the time of the first arms delivery.

The presidential determination, which was in a memorandum to the secretary of state, found under the Foreign Assistance and Foreign Military Sales Act that "the furnishing of military assistance and the furnishing of defense articles and defense services to Cambodia will strengthen the security of the United States and promote world peace."

In accord with other provisions of the law, the President also found that Cambodia conforms to principles of the United Nations charter, that the arms aid will be used by Cambodia for its own defensive strength, that Cambodia is taking all reasonable measures to develop its own defense, and that "the increased ability of Cambodia to defend itself is important to the security of the United States."

The document specifically okayed the supply of up to $7.9 million worth of arms aid under the Foreign Assistance Act.

State Department officials who briefed newsmen in advance of issuance of the presidential finding disclosed that the Nixon determination also allows delivery of other weapons beyond those possible under the $7.9 million ceiling.

Stall Vote On Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield accused Republican opponents Wednesday of stalling action on legislation designed to bar future U.S. operations in Cambodia.

Then, with an embarrassed smile, Mansfield did some stalling himself.

The likely result: at least two more days of talk before the Senate records another vote involving the Cambodian issue.

"It is my belief that what we are seeing is in effect a stalling operation up to this time," Mansfield told the Senate. "We've spent over two weeks on this bill."

The bill, authorizing military sales abroad, is the vehicle for an amendment which would forbid spending on U.S. operations in Cambodia after June 30.

The White House opposes that restriction, and administration allies in the Senate have proposed a series of amendments likely to keep the debate going until at least mid-June.

Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., proposed one to waive any cutoff of funds so long as Americans are held prisoners by Communists in Cambodia.

Mansfield suggested at one point a Thursday morning vote on the amendment. But minutes later, when Dole agreed to that timetable, Mansfield said he would not.

He didn't explain, but the reason was evident: the absence of a vote on the day before a brief Memorial Day recess.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird told a Washington seminar the administration "will meet or beat" President Nixon's announced June 30 deadline for withdrawal from Cambodia.

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott said if U.S. withdrawal is completed before a vote on the cutoff of funds, "it would seem to me that would moot the thrust of the amendment."

But Mansfield disagreed. "If the idea is to stall off until June 30 ... the intent of the amendment is to make sure that the President will not on his own go into Cambodia in the future," he said.

Scott said he expects a vote on the issue by about June 15, and also expects most American troops will be out of Cambodia by that time.

Hit North Viet Positions Air Attacks Resumed

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. warplanes attacked antiaircraft guns in North Vietnam for the first time since the massive raids May 2-3, the U.S. Command said Wednesday.

A communiqué said two Air Force F4 Phantom fighter-bombers struck at gun positions about 100 miles north of the demilitarized zone after the enemy fired on an unarmed reconnaissance plane.

Results of the raid which occurred Monday were unknown, and spokesmen said no U.S. planes were hit.

As in the past, the command described the attack as a "protective reaction ... an inherent right of self-defense."

U.S. reconnaissance aircraft and their armed escorts had flown unchallenged over North Vietnam since the first weekend in May when scores of planes ranged across the border and blasted gun and missile emplacements.

U.S. reconnaissance planes escorted by fighter-bombers have been photographing North Vietnamese defenses and troop and supply movements since the bombing halt of Nov. 1, 1968.

Nine planes have been shot down since then—the last during the May 2 raids.

Elsewhere, enemy gunners shot down two U.S. helicopters in Cambodia and two in South Vietnam, and a fifth crashed on Cambodian soil from an unknown cause, spokesmen said.

The three copters lost in Cambodia, wounding six crewmen, brought to 28 the number of U.S. aircraft downed in Cambodia since the allied offensive was launched April 29.

Allied headquarters reported only light and scattered contact inside Cambodia and the discovery of more caches of enemy munitions, supplies and food.

One stockpile, found by U.S. air cavalrymen four miles inside Cambodia and about 100 miles north of Saigon, weighed about 67 tons, spokesmen said.

An updated report said the stockpile, in good condition, yielded 45 machine guns, 21 mortar tubes, 400 mortar rounds, 60 flame throwers, 50,000 grenades, nearly 6,000 rocket grenade rounds, 500 recoilless rifle rounds, 800 antiaircraft rounds and about 200,000 rounds of small-arms and machine-gun ammunition.

Cambodian sources said Thai army troops have been ordered moved up to the border with Cambodia to bolster Premier Lon Nol's government against increasing enemy pressure.

The U.S. government is reported to be pressing both South Vietnam and Thailand to give all assistance possible to Lon Nol's regime in its fight against about 70,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops in Cambodia.

South Vietnam and Cambodia announced Wednesday that they have agreed to re-establish diplomatic relations and exchange ambassadors.

The joint communiqué said that South Vietnamese troops fighting in Cambodia would be withdrawn "as soon as their mission has been completed."

Foreign Minister Yem Sam-baur of Cambodia added an extra qualification: "If the South Vietnamese would be pulled out 'as soon as they have completed their mission, and as soon as the government of Cambodia decides it has no further need for the cooperation of Vietnamese troops.'"

Mail On Cambodia: Partisans' Heyday

The Cambodian campaign has already proved one thing—Americans, when aroused, can be the writingest people.

A notable sidelight of the furor over the President's decision to move against the Communist sanctuaries has been the flood of pro and con mail into Washington. The over-worked Capitol post office says it may go down as the heaviest outpouring of mail from the public ever received by Congress on a single issue.

And the White House, of course, is also hearing from the people, letters and wires by the bushel.

What the people are saying is another matter, however. That appears to be determined largely by the known positions of the public officials to whom they are saying it.

The White House says its mail is overwhelmingly in support of the President, and congressional allies, such as Sen. Barry Goldwater, say ditto.

Not surprisingly, the President's more outspoken opponents on Capitol Hill come up with very different readings of public sentiment. Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, the once mild-mannered Montanan whose vehemence on Cambodia may cost him a reputation for almost saintly political patience, reports record mail running 200 to one against the action.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, whose Foreign Relations Committee has been leading the congressional assault on administration policy, likewise reports "thousands and thousands" of letters and wires overwhelmingly in support of his position.

There is no contradiction here. It is not surprising that the President, who has appealed for support, should receive mostly positive expressions. Or that communications from the public—ladies named Mitchell prominently excepted—to noted doves such as Fulbright and Mansfield should run strongly in their favor.

When citizens get fired up enough to say their piece on a major issue, they are strongly inclined to communicate with public officials broadcasting on wave lengths to which they are already attuned.

A comparison of pro and con mail to the White House or to Capitol Hill, or even the grand totals, is not, therefore, to be taken as a necessarily trustworthy measurement of public opinion in toto. The primary significance of the mail in this case is not in the breakdown but in the sheer volume, an eloquent statement as to the depth and breadth of the impression the war issue has made on the public.

We can take some comfort—very welcome at a time in public affairs when comfort is in short supply—in viewing this as evidence of an alert and involved citizenry. Unfortunately, the polarized character of the mail also reflects an ominous development throughout our public discourse—in government, in the press and among individuals.

On this and other crucial issues, Americans are speaking not so much to as at each other. The debate is becoming all talk and no listen.

Somehow, this trend must be reversed.

Communication

To the Editor:

I am the parent of a graduating senior from JHS. My son has been an active participant in the string music program in School District 117 for the past eight years, and this past week he performed for the final time as a member of the Jacksonville High School Symphony Orchestra. I have attended every performance that has been given by the High School Orchestra, and I feel that I can comment objectively on the marvelous performance given by the students at their Spring Concert. As one sat in the audience, you could witness the excellent rapport between conductor and musicians. It was obvious that these students had been perfectly trained so that all pupils were certain of every selection and were confident of each note that was played. The program itself offered a wide variety of selections and was very enjoyable to everyone regardless of how diversified was his musical taste.

I have watched the JHS Orchestra grow over the past eight years from a small group of elementary violinists to a professional-sounding full Symphony Orchestra. I feel that the Jacksonville community owes a great debt of gratitude to John Hayter for his tireless efforts in working with the junior high and high school students and for the many hours he devotes to planning and preparing these musical programs.

The JHS Symphony Orchestra is indeed a musical asset to the school district and the community, and I would like to take this opportunity to thank Mr. Hayter for everything he has done over the past five years since he came to Jacksonville, to teach my son and all the other students in the Orchestra, not only to play their instruments with great proficiency, but also to appreciate great music.

Sincerely,
Eleanor Elliott

Budget Pressures May Prompt Troop Strength Cuts

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Top Defense officials say deeper cuts in total U.S. troop strength will be necessary because of a predicted budget deficit and an expected move by Congress to slash Pentagon spending. There are some indications the Joint Chiefs of Staff have sought to use the allied attacks into Cambodia as a lever to persuade Congress to increase military appropriations.

However, top civilian Pentagon authorities say the chiefs are deluding themselves—Congress will order reductions, rather than increases, in President Nixon's $71.8 billion Defense budget for the bookkeeping year starting July 1.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird has called this budget "rock bottom, bare bones" but he now knows Congress almost certainly will not agree.

Two events occurred last week which point toward rising money troubles for the Defense Department.

One was the Nixon administration's disclosure that it anticipates a $1.3 billion deficit for the 1971 fiscal year instead of an earlier forecast surplus.

The other was an indication by Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the key House Appropriations Committee, that the administration's Defense budget, submitted in February, will be slashed at least $1 billion.

That budget calls for bringing the armed services roll down to about 1.9 million, a cut of more than 252,000 men, and a reduction of 57,000 civilian workers for a new total of about 1.1 million nonmilitary defense workers.

At their peaks for the Vietnam war period last June, there were about 3.5 million men in the military and nearly 1.3 million civilians.

But in light of recent developments, top Defense officials make it plain an even heavier military manpower reduction, and probably a civilian worker cutback, lie ahead.

Authorities also predict additional base closings and reductions on top of the 678 facilities already affected by Pentagon economy moves in the last nine months.

Officials say further cuts in U.S. troop strength carry with them additional security risks.

They imply the strength reduction probably will fall hardest on the strategic troop reserve maintained in the United States for possible emergencies abroad, rather than any substantial cutbacks in overseas garrisons.

Defense authorities discount the idea budget pressures will accelerate the troop withdrawal from Vietnam.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff already are less than happy about the pace of U.S. troop withdrawals from Vietnam, preferring a slower-paced pullout.

Civilian Defense leaders are aware that budget cutting creates morale problems and sets the armed services to maneuvering against each other for larger shares of the smaller money fund available for men and weapons.

Also, if the strategic arms limitation talks—SALT—should fail to show much progress by the end of the year, the administration will be faced with what Laird has called a hard decision on whether to start new offensive weapons development and procurement.

Therefore, depending on what happens at the Vienna SALT talks, the Nixon administration could find itself in a tough bind—caught between a need to hold spending in check and what it feels is perhaps an equally imperative need to spend more on new weapons to assure U.S. security.

"My girdle is killing me!!!"

Cambodia Gives Nixon A 'Breather'

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The back-scenes arguments which preceded President Nixon's decision to hit Hanoi's bases in Cambodia and North Vietnam bear recording.

The plain fact is Nixon was on the spot.

Some time back, Nixon's generals told him Vietnamization was not succeeding as rapidly as planned. They needed a six-month respite to bring Saigon's armies up to schedule. They urged a half-year temporary halt in U.S. withdrawals—or at least a significant slowdown—to buy that six months.

Otherwise, they warned, there would be a gap which Hanoi could use to disastrous advantage. A point would be reached about a year and a half down the road when the Viet Cong would be able to stage a Dien Bien Phu against either the weakened American forces or the not-yet-ready Vietnamese.

Nixon could not afford to take that chance.

But if troop withdrawals came to a halt for six months—especially the crucial six months (May to November) before this fall's elections—it could mean political disaster at home.

The anti-Vietnam groups would gain recruits. Nixon's credibility would sink. There would be a loud nationwide clamor for ending the war at any cost.

The alternatives seemed equally distasteful. One invited military disaster. The other insured a political defeat so great it might result in military disaster.

Cambodia provided an answer.

It offered a chance to slow the North Vietnamese and buy those all-important six months.

The Cambodian strikes (those already begun and those in preparation) will hopefully destroy six months' worth of supplies.

Once this destruction is complete (it should be accomplished well within the two-month limit Nixon talks about), there will be no military reason for U.S. troops to stay in these border areas. In fact, there will be certain cogent military reasons for withdrawing quickly.

Though the Cambodian operations have also created a nationwide furor, they have a certain political beauty from Nixon's standpoint.

If he is able to bring U.S. troops out successfully within his two-month time limit (and, as noted above, there is certainly no military reason to prevent him from doing this), the protests may boomerang. His credibility will be enhanced. His opponents will be somewhat discredited. He will carry the leadership aura of a man who has dared to take action and carry it through bravely in the face of criticism.

Now suppose, as is likely, the North Vietnamese move in to rebuild their bases and that new Cambodian strikes are required, say, a year from now. What then?

If all goes well and the President has withdrawn the additional 150,000 Americans from Vietnam as promised, it will be difficult indeed for a protest movement to carry much weight in the light of those continued withdrawals.

Besides, by then the November, 1970, elections will have been long over.

Ann Landers:

Taken For A Fella

Dear Ann Landers: While in the Post Office Building this afternoon I had to go to the bathroom. I started through the door when a security officer stopped me and asked, "Where do you think you're going?" I said, "To the washroom..." He looked startled and mumbled, "I'm sorry, ma'am, I thought you were a man."

This has happened to me before and I hate it! I'm 5'10" and weigh 165 pounds. My hair is smartly styled in a short bob because it looks best this way. I'm more comfortable in slacks and pantsuits and wear them whenever I can.

Ann, I am a married woman and the mother of two lovely children. I have no masculine tendencies whatever and I am 100 per cent normal. What can I do about this problem?—Upset

Dear Up: A woman who is 5'10", weighs 165 pounds, wears a short bob and pantsuits is asking for it. If you'd lose some weight, let your hair grow and put on a skirt, you'd be less apt to be taken for a fella.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl, 14. My mother won't let me do anything on my own. No matter what I do she has to do it over or cut in and "help." I can't make a bed to suit her or sew a hem or iron a blouse. She finds fault with everything and makes me feel like a failure.

I wrote a letter tonight and asked Mom for a stamp. She asked who I had written to. When I said, "Ann Landers," she got mad and yelled, "I hope you told Ann Landers that you have your own phone, a new portable TV for your bedroom, a closet full of clothes and that we are sending you to Europe on a student tour next year." When I didn't answer, she screamed, "I can't imagine why you'd be writing to Ann Landers. With all the money we've spent on you, you should be the happiest girl in the world."

I tore up that first letter and wrote this one instead. I'm sure you know my problem. Can you help?—Too Many Things

Dear Too: Your mother is the one who needs help and unfortunately she didn't ask for it. You sound like a smart chick who knows the score. I urge you to continue to do your best and not let your mother destroy your initiative or self-esteem. I hope every mother who reads this and sees herself will do something about it.

Dear Ann Landers: Once in a while someone asks you to re-run a letter they think is especially good. I am asking such a favor today. I am a realtor who has carried this particular column in my wallet for several years. I always show it to the widows who ask me to sell their homes. I need a fresh copy. Please, Ann.—M.B.

Dear M.B.: I'll do it. But have this one plasticized, please.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband died four months ago and my daughter begged me to sell my home and live with them. I was grief-stricken and lonely when I said, "Yes!" It was the biggest mistake I ever made.

My house is gone, my furniture is gone and I'm a guest in someone else's house. My grandchildren are disrespectful and I feel "in their way." To hear them talk, I wonder how I could have lived so long and learned so little. I was once a friendly, pleasant person. Now I feel like a sour, useless old woman. I gave up everything dear to me and I really didn't have to. Tell other widows to stay where they are—even if it's a single room. I wish I had. —Unhappy

Q. What mobility rights does a parolee have? Specifically: can he leave Illinois for a short period of time?

A. The prisoner on parole in Illinois is governed by a parole agreement which he executes prior to his release. According to this agreement, the prisoner is confined to the jurisdiction of his county of parole and cannot go beyond its limits without obtaining permission from his Parole Agent. He cannot leave the state of Illinois without permission from the Parole and Pardon Board.

She Has Trouble With Dress Patterns

By POLLY CRAMER
Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY—When making a garment for myself, always have trouble getting it to fit across the back. They are always tight and uncomfortable. Using the next-size-larger pattern makes them too large. A ready-made, size 14 dress usually fits quite well, but a size 14 pattern fits too tightly. Would widening the pattern on each side across the shoulders the length of the back be the place to make the proper adjustments?—MARION

DEAR POLLY—I am answering A. Y., whose white, up-right freezer stands out like a sore thumb in her kitchen where other appliances have a copper-tone finish. If it is built-in, the door can be removed and painted to match the other things at an automobile body and paint shop. This would cost only about half as much as having the entire freezer done, if that isn't necessary. We left our frozen food at a local ice plant while the job was being done. I have also seen pretty, adhesive-backed, plasticized paper used successfully for a less costly but less permanent job.—MRS. R.L.Z.

DEAR POLLY and A. Y.—

The white freezer can be painted to match the copper-tone appliances in the kitchen. Be sure to sand the finish before painting. We had a man who mixes car paint mix samples in several shades for us and tried them on the back of the freezer to see which was the best match for the other appliances. We used a combination of brown, white and pink, which was sprayed on, but it could doubtlessly be carefully brushed on.—MRS. A.A.S.

DEAR POLLY—The lighting fixture in our kitchen holds two bulbs and is not too easy to take apart and put back together again. When one bulb burns out, we always put in two new bulbs so we do not have to take the fixture apart so soon. I return the partially used bulb to a carton but mark it "U" so it will only be put in a lamp or other place where changing would be easy. I always clean the fixtures when they are apart for bulb changing.—MRS. H.L.

DEAR POLLY—Next time you buy a large can of sardines, use a can opener to open it and save the large key. It makes a perfect gadget to place on the end of a tube of toothpaste for a perfect roll-up. Neatness prevails in the bathroom and this is also an economy, for the toothpaste can be used right to the end.—CELESTIA

Cass Family Entertains For Australia Guest

VIRGINIA — Mr. and Mrs. Robert Virgin and son David entertained Sunday in their country home near here, Miss Hazel Astbury of Australia. Miss Astbury is on her way to San Francisco, via horseback. She had spent Saturday evening at the E. Y. Johnson farm at Ashland and planned to spend Tuesday at the Gilbert Lebkuecher farm, east of Beardstown.

She only travels 15 miles a day, until her horse gets conditioned. She first started to tour the North American Continent in 1965 from Vancouver, British Columbia, having in mind visiting the 1967 Expo World's Fair. She returns to Australia each winter, sometimes stopping off at Hong Kong and at Sydney. She spends the winter with friends at a large ranch about 160 miles north of Sydney. Her horse "Cobber" is her ninth and it winters in the United States.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
and HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, MAY 28—Born today, you possess a stimulating and inquiring mind that is forever on the prowl for information, for new knowledge, for the development of new instincts, new intuitive responses. With you, however, mind and body work together in such harmony that it is exceedingly important that both mind and body be kept healthy. Physical illness disturbs your thought processes; sloppy thinking disturbs your physical well-being. You must, therefore, protect the well-being of both.

Although at times you enjoy pretending to be what you are not—especially if it enables you to establish an interesting relationship with another person—you actually gain the most by being entirely yourself, faults and all. It is of far less importance to your ultimate success that you have a few faults than that you are open and aboveboard about your views, your responses and reactions to life.

One who guards his privacy well, you will have to take care that you don't guard it to the point of excluding from your life precisely those people whom you would most like to include in it. Children, for example, spouse, good friends: there must always be room for these in your life, for without them you will find that life has little to offer.

To find what is in store or you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Friday, May 29
GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—Offer something attractive to those you would bring to your support. Don't worry about what other people say about the project.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—See that your personal outlook reflects the optimism of the situation. Otherwise, you may stand in your own way.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—Seek something to challenge your intelligence. The work you are presently engaged in may be too easy for your satisfaction.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—Though there may be objections to your present behavior, you would be wise to continue in the way that is bringing honorable results.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—Play upon your weaknesses in the right way and they can become very real assets to your success. Strengths take care of themselves.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—Keep a wary eye out for the person who would stand in the way of your success. Refuse to be taken advantage of.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—See within those qualities necessary to immediate success and you will have won half the battle. Trust your own talents.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)—It may take more than one head to deal with your present problem. Don't be surprised at the involvement of others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—It is personal matters that will gain you the good graces of one toward whom you feel a strong affection. Play upon them.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21)—Don't allow your independent nature to keep you from entering upon an exciting new experience in the company of others.

ARIES (March 22-April 20)—Your leadership ability should stand you in excellent stead at this time. Keep your adverse opinions to yourself.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—Work toward the accomplishment of those things which you deem essential to your well-being. Younger family members bring joy.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market shot upward Wednesday, propelling the Dow Jones average to its largest single day gain in history.

Volume was 17.44 million, second-heaviest turnover this year. On March 25 17.50 million shares were traded.

This was the second consecutive day that volume topped the 17-million mark. It was 17.03 million Tuesday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials jumped 32.04 to 663.20, a 5.07 per cent gain.

The previous record single-day gain in the average's 41-year history was on Nov. 26, 1963, when the Dow rose 32.03 points.

Some analysts said the upswing might signal an end to the present market slump, but others described the rise as only technical in nature.

Wednesday's rise "is a very good sign," said Bradbury K. Thurlow, analyst with Hoppin Brothers. "It would take a major weakness to put prices back to the previous day's level."

He said major upward moves after steep market declines began with this kind of buying surge.

Other analysts, however, said the basic fundamentals that sent the Dow average plunging 71 points in the previous six sessions remained unchanged. They said the upswing was due primarily to internal forces rising from a deeply oversold market.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up 9.4 to 231.6, with industrials up 16.0, rails up 4.8, and utilities up 3.0. This was the largest single day gain since Nov. 26, 1963.

Advances outnumbered declines by 1,312 to 191, and 126 stocks were unchanged. Stocks were up in all categories. There were 300 new lows and 3 new highs.

There were 76 blocks of 10,000 shares or over traded, as compared with 72 Tuesday. Largest was a block of 106,600 Penn Central at 13, up 1/4.

Closing Big Board prices included volume leader Occidental Petroleum, up 2% to 16 1/2; Norfolk & Western, up 5% to 68 1/2; Sears Roebuck, up 3 1/2 to 54 1/2; Westinghouse Electric, up 4 1/2 to 58; Xerox, up 4 1/2 to 76; IBM, up 17 to 259; Memorex, up 7 to 74; and American Telephone, up 1 1/2 to 44 1/2.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange also showed record gains. The Amex price change index jumped 0.60 to 19.96, the largest single-day rise since the index began in October, 1962.

Advances outnumbered declines by 860 to 125, with 123 stocks unchanged.

Volume on the Amex was 5.89 million, a 1970 record. On Tuesday, Amex volume was 5.52 million shares.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Thursday, May 28, the 148th day of 1970. There are 217 days left in the year.

On this date in 1940, in World War II, British and French troops began evacuation of Dunkerque, France.

In 1864, Archduke Ferdinand Maximilian of Austria-Hungary landed in Vera Cruz, Mexico, to become emperor.

In 1905, Russia's fleet suffered a disastrous defeat in the Russo-Japanese War.

In 1934 Mrs. Oliva Dionne gave birth to quintuplets in a farmhouse near Callender, Ontario.

In 1937, British Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin resigned and was succeeded by Neville Chamberlain.

In 1959, two monkeys named Able and Baker survived a 300-mile trip into space after being launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., in the nose of a rocket.

In 1962, the New York stock market took its biggest loss since October 1929.

Ten years: An estimated 200 persons were killed in a tropical storm which hit Luzon Island in the Philippines.

Five years ago: Britain's Queen Elizabeth II sailed for home on the royal yacht Britannia after a 10-day visit to West Germany.

One year ago: The government of Argentina imposed a limited state of siege amid student unrest and the prospect of a general strike.

SOYBEAN FUTURES
MARKET RISES

CHICAGO (AP)—Soybean future prices spurred upward on the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday while grain futures were mixed.

Traders buying soybeans for export, combined with only light offerings, forced the July option up by 2 cents. Later contracts advanced by 3/4 to 1 1/2 cents.

A firm cash market lent some support to the nearby corn option and prices advanced by 1/2 cents a bushel. Later contracts were mixed in a very narrow range.

There was only light trading in the wheat pit, with the July and May contracts off and the others up fractionally.

At the close, wheat was 7/8 cents a bushel lower to 3/8 higher, July 1.35 1/4; corn was 1/8 lower to 1/2 higher, July 1.29 1/2; oats were 1/8 to 1/2 higher, July 65 cents; rye was 1/8 lower to 3/8 higher, July 1.07 1/2; and soybeans were 3/4 to 2 cents higher, July 2.71 1/2.

Business — Market Wrapup

Business Mirror

By JACK SHOLL
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Two of the most comprehensive studies ever undertaken on how big block trades affect stock market prices are nearing completion.

More than two years after it was created by Congress to investigate the power of the big blocks, a Securities and Exchange Commission group expects to present its findings on Nov. 1.

A University of Pennsylvania professor's 1 1/2-year study on the impact of institutional investing in the market is slated for publication in late July.

The results of the studies will undoubtedly cause considerable stirring in the financial community. Both were launched amidst growing governmental and securities industry concern that the buying and selling of large blocks—10,000 or more shares—tends to make individual stock prices highly volatile.

The major fear was that the small investor may not be getting a fair shake in a market increasingly dominated by institutional participation.

Lacking the resources of institutions, it was felt the little guy may be on the losing end of fast price fluctuations when holders of a large number of shares get in or out of a stock.

If anything, the problem has become more severe since the studies began.

The New York Stock Exchange reports a 37 per cent jump in block volume in 1969 over 1968. This means, according to the exchange, a big block transaction crossed its ticker on the average of once every four minutes last year.

Industry observers say the institutions—mutual and pension funds, insurance companies, trusts and endowments—are now responsible for about 95 per cent of the block trades. And they say trading by institutions accounts for over 50 per cent of the daily volume on the New York Stock Exchange.

While the SEC and the professor are analyzing daily stock prices, they are also looking into broader aspects related to institutional investing and big block trading.

The SEC study, being done under a congressional grant of $875,000, is zeroed in on the institutions themselves. Its 50-member, full-time staff wants to know how institutions get their funds, how the funds are managed and the relationship between the institutions and the companies in which they own stock.

Prof. Irwin Friend's study, being done at the Wharton School of Finance under an approximate $75,000 grant from the 20th Century Fund, is centered on the mutual funds.

Friend particularly wants to know if mutual funds are channeling their investments into companies that are most beneficial to the economy. In other words, investing heavily in the steel industry may be better for the economy than large investments in the candy industry.

Neither Friend nor the SEC are willing to discuss their preliminary findings. An SEC spokesman says its report is confidential until it goes to Congress.

John Cuniff is on vacation.

BRACE YOURSELF.....

By Roger Bollen

Motor homes — the self-powered "land yachts," and their little brothers, the "conversion vans" — generally represent a sizable investment, and a special policy is recommended.

Like a conventional auto policy, it provides liability coverage for property damage and personal liability, but it also extends to broad coverage of almost any type of loss, including that caused by collision or upset. And this package policy can also cover personal effects, including cameras and special sports equipment.

Owners of towed trailers may find the problem of liability coverage is easily solved with an amendment to their regular auto policies, but generally they'll have very limited protection against loss of the trailer itself. Most homeowner policies, says the Journal, limit the coverage to $500 in case of theft and that only when the trailer is on the policyholder's premises.

A number of companies write an all-risk floater policy for trailers. They're covered while attached, detached, even stored.

Before hitching up, the Journal of American Insurance warns, check insurance coverage. The usual auto and homeowner policies do usually provide some kind of trailer coverage, but it's limited. It's easy for trailer owners to conclude that they're "covered" and joyously take to the open road towing a potential financial disaster behind them.

Liability insurance, protecting you against lawsuits in the event of personal injury, should be your first concern. Some auto policies, the journal points out, automatically extend liability coverage to a trailer that's acquired during the policy period — but some may leave you completely unprotected unless your policy is amended, with the trailer specifically described.

There's generally a separate problem with truck campers — the beetle-browed rigs that slide onto a truck bed and hence are thought by many owners as integral parts of the vehicle, and therefore covered. Not so.

Almost all auto policies, says the journal, don't cover a truck camper unless the camper section is named specifically in the policy. Generally, an additional premium must be paid.

Have You
Written A Book?

The executive director of a well-known New York publishing firm will be in Jacksonville in late June. He will be interviewing local authors in a quest for finished manuscripts suitable for book publication. All subjects will be considered, including fiction and non-fiction, poetry, juveniles, religious books, etc.

If you have completed a book-length manuscript (or nearly so) on any subject, and would like a professional appraisal (without cost or obligation), please write immediately describing your work and stating which part of the day (a.m. or p.m.) you would prefer for an appointment. You will promptly receive a confirmation for a definite time and place.

Authors with completed manuscripts unable to appear may send them directly to us for a free reading and evaluation. We will also be glad to hear from those whose literary works are still in progress. Please address:

State Hospital Out-Patient Service In Area

The Jacksonville State hospital extends into the community through the work of its out-patient services, which include: (1) psychiatric evaluations; (2) individual and group psychotherapy and counseling; (3) electro-encephalograms and (4) vocational rehabilitation and counseling.

Out-patient treatment is in accord with the policy of providing help at an early stage in emotional problems, thereby frequently eliminating the need for in-patient hospitalization. Out-patient services are provided to this area (Morgan, Scott, Cass, Greene, Jersey and Calhoun counties) through the community service staff of the Central Comprehensive Mental Health Center.

Currently, out-patient services are provided at four locations: Jacksonville, where the staff sees out-patients twice each week (on Mondays and Thursdays) at the Jersey Community hospital; Beardstown, where the staff sees out-patient clients each Wednesday at the First United Methodist church; Hardin, where out-patient staff serves two half days per month at the Hardin Medical Center; and in Jacksonville, headquarters of the out-patient staff, where clients are seen five days per week in the Veterans' Diagnostic Building of the Jacksonville State hospital.

Out-patient services of Jacksonville State hospital represent the most modern approach to providing comprehensive hospital services—preventive mental health services, community-oriented consultation and education, and follow-up care to augment in-patient treatment programming.

High Court Rules On Two Pending Issues

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Supreme Court held valid Wednesday a provision of the Illinois Unemployment Compensation Act denying benefits to a jobless person who moves to another locality where work opportunities are less favorable.

The case involved Joe Wadlington, who on two occasions in 1966 left Chicago for Oxford, Miss., and later filed claims for Illinois unemployment payment. His claims were denied on grounds Oxford had fewer opportunities for work than Chicago.

The high court ruled that a prepaid prescription drug service negotiated in a collective bargaining agreement between the United Auto Workers and Caterpillar Tractor Co., did not involve price fixing.

The decision reversed the Peoria County Circuit Court and directed that a temporary injunction be dissolved.

The suit was brought by the B and L Pharmacy, Inc., of Peoria against Caterpillar, Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., and three rival chain drug outlets. The suit charged a program known as Medimet violated state laws.

Under the plan, affecting 42,000 Caterpillar employees, participating pharmacists charge the actual cost of the drugs, plus a $2 fee for filling the prescription. The beneficiary pays the $2 fee.

The B and L firm, a non-participant in the program, alleged the plan removed competition in prescription filling through price fixing.

COMMAND PERFORMANCE

The 1971 All-America Rose selections award-winning rose offer a choice for those favoring the grandiflora, the tea and the floribunda. That's because there were three winners. Last year there was only one, and it was a grandiflora.

Here are the 1971 champions, chosen after field and garden tests in various areas of the country:

The grandiflora Aquarius, which has 30-35 nicely arranged petals of light pink, brushed with deep pink at the margins to make a pleasing contrast. The buds are well-shaped and grow rather profusely on long, sturdy stems. The medium-sized, mildly fragrant flowers generally grow on single stems, sometimes in long-stemmed clusters. They are fine for cutting. The roses are long-lasting and grow continuously during the season. The plants, tall and vigorous, have semi-glossy foliage.

The hybrid tea is Command Performance, a bright orange-red, somewhat fluorescent, with graceful buds that open to high-centered, many petaled star-shaped flowers. They have good persisting fragrance and grow on long, strong stems that make them very showy for garden or flower arrangements.

The floribunda is the bright Redgold, bound to stand out in your garden. Chrome yellow buds open slowly to flowers of the same hue, gradually acquiring brick-red edges that darken as the flower opens all the way. You will have blossoms that grow singly or in clusters, two inches across. The outer petals are slightly frilled. The flowers resemble miniature tea roses. They have a delicate fragrance and the roses last well. The bushes average about two feet tall, are upright and bushy, with bright green foliage.

Aquarius is a cross between Armstrong Contrast, Fandango World's Fair Floradora. This is a hybrid by Dr. David L. Armstrong of Armstrong Nurseries, Ontario, Calif.

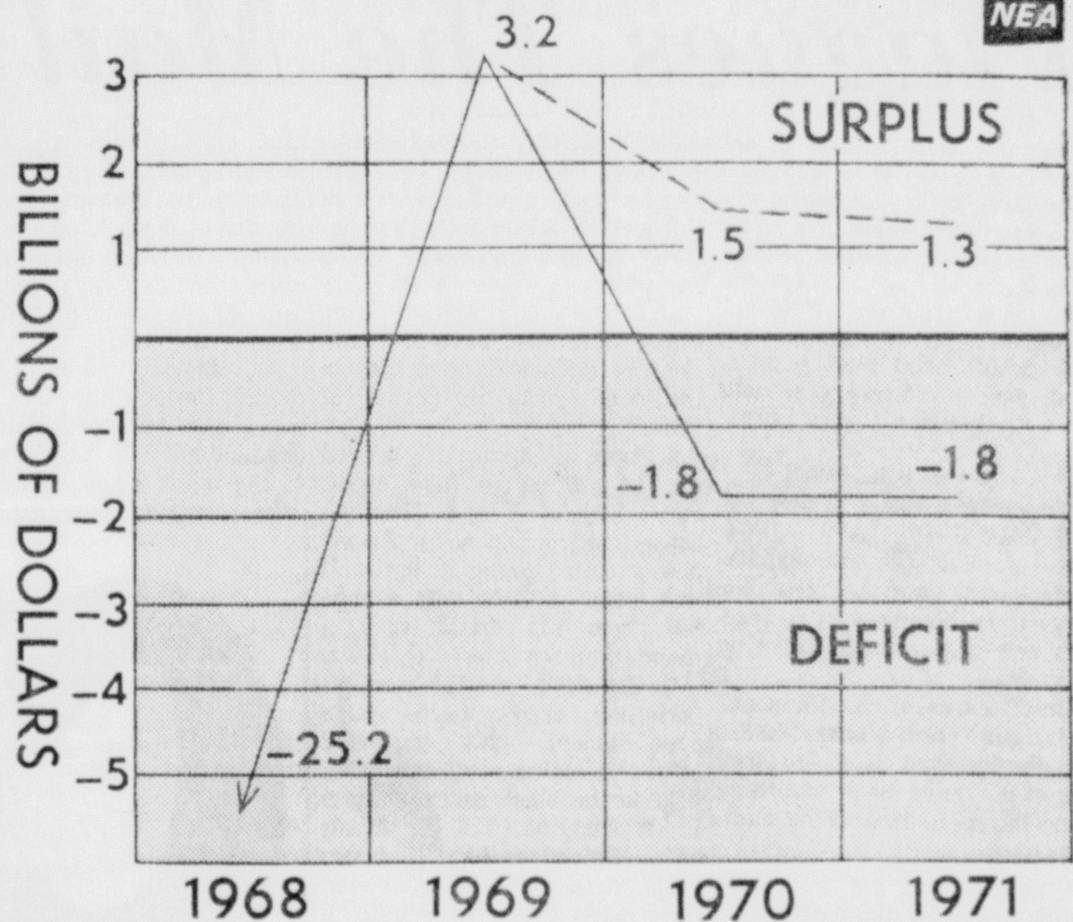

Command Performance is a hybrid of Bob Lindquist of the Howard Rose Co., of Hemet, Calif.

Redgold was hybridized by Pat Dickson in Ireland and is being put out by Jackson & Perkins. As to its parentage, you will recognize some of your favorites. First there were Independence, Peace, Golden Rapture and a seedling. Then came Goldlocks, Holiday, then Karl Herbst, Masquerade and Golden Scepter and just before Redgold, a seedling and Faust were the producers.

The AARS describes Aquarius as "exceptional in several respects"—the color pattern of the open flower is unique among grandifloras especially, and the neat arrangement of the large number of light pink petals brushed with deep pink at the margins for pleasing contrast.

Chronophobia is an impulse to smash clocks.

THE UNCERTAIN BUDGET

President Nixon's bad news about revised budget estimates for fiscal 1970 (ending June 30) and 1971 cuts short the hopeful trend toward budget surpluses of the past few years. From a deficit plunge of $25.2 billion in 1968, federal accounts rose to a modest surplus in 1969 which earlier this year was expected to continue. The revisions now foresee deficits for the next two years.

MRS. DAVIDSMEYER NAMED PRESIDENT OF GTS CLUB

Members of the GTS club were entertained May 13 by Pauline West. The president, Rose Cully, conducted the meeting, opening with the pledge to the flag led by Veva Maynard. Roll was answered by ten, naming a cherished wedding gift.

Annual reports were heard and an election for new officers was held. This slate was chosen: president, Norma Davidsmeyer; vice president, Veva Maynard; second vice president, Roberta Werries; secretary, Juanita Thomason; assistant secretary, Lois Williams and Margaret Stout; treasurer, Mae Hunt; and assistant treasurer, Nellie Hynes. Grace Killam presented the program, Marriage Now and Then. A number of pictures of weddings some years ago were displayed.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Lloyd E. West, Kendra Dee and Glen Steven. Refreshments were served at the close.

Y SUMMER DAY CAMP STILL HAS OPENINGS

The Sherwood Eddy Memorial YMCA still has a limited number of openings for Day Camp. The sessions are June 15 to June 26 and July 6 to July 17. They are open to youth entering second, third or fourth grades.

The cost for the camp is $25 for YMCA members and $32 for non-members. The fee covers camp T-shirt, draft materials, lunch drink and insurance.

Registration can be made by contacting Youth Director Jerry Clardy at the YMCA, 245-2141.

The first battle of the U.S. Marines was an expedition against Nassau, in the Bahamas, in 1776, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Postal Thievery Plagues The Mail

Editor's Note: Billions of dollars in cash and other valuables flow through the U.S. postal system each day. Some of it never reaches its destination because it is stolen by postal employees. This report from the AP Special Assignment Team examines the worsening postal theft problem that can affect everyone who uses the mails.

By JAMES R. POLK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions of dollars in merchandise and money are being stolen from the U.S. mails by a faceless new criminal: the pilfering postman.

Credit cards, cash, Christmas gifts, guns, rich stocks, checks for charity, and even Treasury shipments have been vanishing from the mails in growing numbers.

Officials can't put a precise dollar figure on the theft losses, but the nation's top postal cop, Chief Inspector William J. Cotter, said:

"We handle billions of dollars a day in the mail, and when I say it the losses would go into the millions, that might be low."

Arrests of postal workers for theft and rifling mail have jumped by one-half in less than two years, now running well over 1,100 a year.

The percentage of postmen dipping into the mail—usually a sorting clerk rather than the friendly neighborhood mailman—is very low. But losses still run high.

An Associated Press study across the country shows anything that moves may be prey for some postman.

It took more than two months before the Post Office even found out that a registered envelope sent by air mail from Coty Fashion Award winner, Stan Herman, likes the deep, provocative accidental feeling of pale champagne printed antique satin for a prize evening gown. His model chooses makeup to match the mood of the fabric and captures the shades of the ocean as a frame for her eyes. Called Atlantis, the look is created by using three shades of shadow over the eyes. Choose amethyst-gray, sheer snow white and turquoise, blue or green. Wear the deepest color close to your eyes, the darkest on the brow bone. Add new spaced-apart lashes on upper and lower lids, tipped with midnight blue mascara. Hair is sleek and tendriled to carry out the mermaid magic.

of value hidden from sight and assured of safety.

Diamond merchants often use the mails rather than messengers. Stocks go by mail. So do mink coats, money, candy, taxes, toys, bill payments, millions of social security checks a month, and sometimes even the kitchen sink.

The Post Office moves 82 billion pieces of mail a year. Its complaints about mail apparently lost or stolen last year ran to about 1 million—a tiny percentage, but people don't complain about missing letters that weren't of any value.

Postal files show arrests of mailmen are on the rise. The count for the past ten months has hit 1,189, already surpassing the record total for the previous fiscal year.

The figures mean that roughly out of every 300 postal employees, one is arrested for theft each year.

In big cities, the percentage is probably worse. One-third of the arrests so far this year have been in the New York area.

Cotter, the former CIA agent who now runs the postal police force, is adding 200 new inspectors and giving them detective duties in the big city post offices.

Credit card companies, hit with heavy losses, are trying a different method, using "the plain brown wrapper approach" to try to hide their plastic money in innocent-looking envelopes. Some firms seal mail sacks and ship them directly to neighborhood post offices, but losses still persist for the industry.

Cotter said the biggest mail theft problem involves parcels. For instance, each piece of registered mail is stamped with a number, supposedly to keep track of its movement. But then the Post Office fails to make a serialized list of which pieces are in a particular mail bag.

Registered mail, because of its value, has become an acute problem area for postal officials. "That's where the meat and potatoes are," said one inspector.

On top of that, the archaic nature of the American mail system leaves Cotter's force even more outmanned.

Mexico City's Subway System Offers Pleasurable Journey

By JOHN PLATERO
Associated Press Writer
MEXICO CITY (AP) — Comparing the Mexico City subway to its counterpart in New York City is like matching a miniskirt against a maxi—there's more to see and you want to take a second look.

Besides, there's no confusion as to what train you're looking for in Mexico City. Neither do you concern yourself with whether you've caught an express or local.

There's only one line—no, 1—and it makes all 19 stops. During the morning and evening rush hours, trains are crowded as they are in the big metropolis north of the border and you may have to push a bit to get aboard.

You'll probably not get a seat, but for the men, this is compensated by beautiful, dark-haired señoritas having the usual problem of sitting with miniskirts.

For the female traveler, Latin chivalry remains the custom and you'll be offered a seat—especially if you're wearing a mini.

And for all who ride the metro, there is beauty, cleanliness and a smooth ride.

After descending a wide staircase, one is awed by the spacious marble floor on the level where tickets are sold. Immaculately clean, the area is devoid of advertisements and vending machines. Walls are adorned intermittently with huge photos of life in Mexico and concrete columns are carved like those of ancient Indian temples.

Tickets cost one peso 20 centavos each—which is equivalent to 9.6 U.S. cents. The ticket is inserted into a slot at the turnstile to enter onto the platform.

Soft music, both Mexican and American, takes your mind away from the few minutes' wait between trains. Looking at the platform itself, you become aware there isn't a scrap of paper or trash anywhere—not even on the tracks.

Many of the platforms are constructed of gleaming marble squares reflecting the indirect lighting that brightens the entire length of the station. Walls are colorfully painted in orange and pink and the air in the underground system is clean and fresh.

Suddenly, an ultramodern train rumbles into the station and you wonder why you haven't heard its approach. A glance at the tracks gives you the answer—air-filled tires like those on an automobile.

Wide-eyed, you enter one of the train's six cars to an interior of pleasant shades of blue. The cars are perhaps a bit narrower than most U.S. subways and the seating arrangement slightly different.

Seats for two passengers face each other with single seats filling up places where shiny chrome bars are located for those who stand near the doors.

"Strap hangers" fill the middle aisle and there are almost no advertisements at eye level.

Trains pull away smoothly from the station without a jolt and the ride resembles that of an expensive limousine. Only a soft whine from the subway's motor and quiet conversation are heard.

Not a mark mars the cars, nor is a single seat torn. No initials have been scratched on the walls, nor slogans or vulgar words.

There is one problem for the tourist. He may have trouble knowing which station to get off in order to do his sightseeing. Stations are not named as simply as "Times square," "14th St.," or "Grand Central."

Directions from a hotel clerk may be to "get off at Juancito, which is three stops after South African senate are to be more closely watched in the future. A stop clock is to be installed in the senate chamber to record how long each member speaks.

o—Can I use denatured alcohol to remove a few small spots from a shellacked surface? A—Yes, but you'd better rub very lightly. Denatured alcohol is a solvent for shellac and when you take out the spots you may remove some of the finish.

BACK ON THE TRACK
CHICAGO (AP) — Buddy Miles has put together a new nine-man group, for an album called "Them Changes."

He previously had recorded two LPs with the Muddy Miles Express, then late last year the group split. Miles joined Jimi Hendrix's short-lived Band of Gypsies.

Now he has put together a new Buddy Miles Express. All except two of the members formerly belonged to a West Coast group called the Age of Aquarius.

PROGRAM CUT
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky's Medicaid program costs this fiscal year will be cut appreciably because of tightened procedures all along the line, Economic Security Commissioner Merritt Deitz says.

He estimated the aggregate expense will be $52 million rather than the original $60 million estimate.

PEANUTS

By Charles M. Schulz

BOATING ENTHUSIASTS who also are home handymen will find this piece of equipment to their liking. Called an "Allaboard," the device was developed by an American Red Cross official as a safety item. In addition to use as a gangplank, a stretcher and a float for tired swimmers, it can be tied alongside the boat as a ramp for entering or leaving the water, left; placed under the keel to help steady the boat in rough water, center; and used as a ladder, right. The Allaboard consists of a piece of three-quarter or one-inch exterior or marine plywood, measuring eight feet by 16 inches, and fiberglassed on one side and on rounded edges. Cleats should be placed about 15 inches apart. Hand or footholds should be approximately four inches wide and 1 1/2 inches in depth.

Cardinal Suenens: Progressive Prelate

By GODFREY ANDERSON
AP Religion Writer

MALINES, Belgium (AP) — Leon-Joseph Cardinal Suenens, primate of Belgium and the man some talk of as a future Pope, says the Roman Catholic Church must go forward fast to keep pace with a rapidly evolving world.

"The Church must be true to the past, and the present, and the future," he says. "It is a very difficult situation . . . but I think we have to go forward, trying to get the people to follow, because the world is evolving in such a quick way that if we are one year late, it's a drama. So I really take a choice for the future — the present going to the future."

But the 65-year-old cardinal smiled at the suggestion he is leader of progressive forces seeking widespread changes in the church of Rome.

"Well, I leave that to you," he said. "I don't think there is a leader. Just many people thinking along the same lines."

The lines Cardinal Suenens thinks along challenge the one-man rule concept of the papacy, the election of the Pope by cardinals alone, the prominent role of the Roman Curia, and much besides. He sees the current of progress and liberty as irreversible.

"You can't stem it by ignoring it," he says.

The cardinal talked of his hopes for the Church in an exclusive interview with The Associated Press in the second-floor study of his rambling white palace in the ancient Flemish cathedral city of Mechlin, which French-speaking Belgians call Malines.

Speaking of today's worldwide movement toward possible church unity, Cardinal Suenens gestured around him and said: "This is the very room where it all began."

Here in the 1920s, one of his predecessors, Desire-Joseph Cardinal Mercier, initiated the first talks since the Reformation with the breakaway Church of England's Archbishop of York.

The Malines conversations, as they were called, flickered through two years, then faded with the cardinal's death in 1926. It was, perhaps, too early in the century for the ecumenical movement to be launched.

Now Leon-Joseph Suenens, the little seminarian whom Cardinal Mercier once sent to study at the Gregorian University in Rome, is a cardinal himself and, like Mercier Archbishop of Malines-Brussels. Suenens has reopened and deepened the original contacts.

Few churchmen at the top have made their presence more rapidly felt than Belgium's only cardinal. Pope John XXIII raised Leon-Joseph Suenens to the purple in the consistory of March 1962. Little more than a year later, Suenens was already a reputed contender for the papacy upon John's death. But the new Pope was his old friend, Giovanni Cardinal Montini, Archbishop of Milan, now ruling as Paul VI. Their friendship has since been sometimes strained. The two had worked closely together at the first session of the Second Vatican Council, when John was still Pope. Suenens obviously saw the Council as a chance to renew the Church and he moved vigorously. Suddenly he was a major church figure. Other progressive prelates were attracted by his ability and rallied around him. Pope Paul, who continued the Council after John's death, often consulted the Belgian.

But at the first synod of bishops called by Pope Paul in 1967, Suenens emerged as the spearhead of liberal forces demanding more reforms than the Pope appeared willing to allow.

Suenens' book, "Co-Responsibility in the Church," set out his ideas: the sense of co-responsibility must be the soul of the apostolic activity of the 20th century, and of the centuries which follow. The Church makes its way toward the future in a living continuity with the past, but this continuity is neither conservatism nor servility; it is fidelity.

Some of Suenens' views have gotten him in trouble with Rome.

Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, dean of the College of Cardinals, roundly attacked him for using a "disrespectful" tone in expressing himself to a French magazine, inviting him to "correct" his thinking by another public declaration. Suenens did not take up the suggestion.

Cardinal Suenens clearly sees Pope Paul as overworked and carrying too much of the burden alone.

During the interview, the cardinal summed up his attitude this way: "St. Peter, let's do things together. You will have the last word. What we ask is to work together."

The cardinal said the principle of the collegiality of bishops, approved at Vatican II, had not gone nearly far enough. It still needs to increase at every level, he said — the Pope with the bishops; the bishop with his priests, his deacons and the whole church.

The problem of the Roman Curia, which Suenens once suggested held the Pope prisoner, was one of organization rather than personalities, he said. He conceded there had been recent improvement in some of its departments — "I don't say in every one" — but he thought the fundamental issue remained unsolved: "Is the Curia really an instrument for the Pope alone or is it an instrument for the College of Bishops, with the Pope at the center and the head?"

Cardinal Suenens, at 65, is a man of middle height with a Roman profile, well-combed gray hair, and a disconcertingly steady gaze from behind his squarish spectacles.

Like his Netherlands colleague, Bernard Cardinal Alfrink, Suenens has done away with most of the outward trappings of his office. He may be a prince of the Church and "Your Eminence" in Rome; at home he is plain "Monsieur le Cardinal."

He dressed like any country priest, though he clings to the clerical collar in a land where many have opted for the less distinctive civilian tie.

Cardinal Suenens, only son of a farmer who moved to the capital and became a cafe owner, was born July 16, 1904, in a Brussels maternity clinic run by nuns. He was baptized Joseph-Léon, not Leon-Joseph, the form he prefers.

His father died when he was only 3.

At the College St. Marie in the Brussels suburb of Schaerbeek, the boy whom his friends called Lionel always wanted to become a priest. When only 17, he was picked by Cardinal Mercier to go to the Gregorian Pontifical University in Rome, training ground for much of the Roman Catholic hierarchy.

At the end of World War II, while vice-rector of Louvain University, he had a close call with death at Nazi hands. The Germans imprisoned him and he was on a list of 30 hostages being held for execution at the time of Belgium's liberation.

The late Joseph Cardinal Van Roey made Suenens auxiliary bishop and vicar-general of the Malines-Brussels archdiocese. When Van Roey died in 1961, Suenens became apostolic administrator and archbishop.

Pope John made him cardinal March 19, 1962. The great Savior bell of Malines boomed in salute as he took the office he holds today.

LEE MUELLER

Humanoids Spread Humanities Word

By LEE MUELLER

NEW YORK (NEA) — Unlike most humanoids of my acquaintance, I am not in the least embarrassed by my culture gap. I am but a simple man of the soil, given to hard labor with a turning-plow and a mattock. The only thing I dig is dirt.

I know only what interests me—that Socrates died owing Asclepius a rooster; that Robert Burns somehow was in sympathy with corn-eating field mice under fodder-shocks; and that Robert Frost favored stone fences instead of the chicken-wire type we use at home.

Some people, of course, will say my attitude is narrow and that I am not fit to sit among the more enlightened, indeed, more cultured members of the Fourth Estate. To these people, let me just say, "E Pluribus Unum," which—if not appropriate—is all the Latin I know.

There are, however, persons who do not think the way I think. These citizens have never confused Plato with Mickey Mouse's dog; neither have they bothered with a Tom Wolfe phrase like, "No Left Turn Unstated." These are men like Barnaby C. Keenev.

Socrates said: "The unexamined life is not worth living." Barnaby Keenev said: "The un-lived life is not worth examining."

Keenev was president of Brown University for 11 years until he quit to join a small, offbeat federal agency called the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH). Established in 1965, NEH represents a modest commitment of tax dollars ($6.65 million) to the proposition that the humanities—art, literature, philosophy, jurisprudence, that sort of thing—are sufficiently important to our national life to deserve federal encouragement.

The National Humanities Series, for example, drew its inspiration (and a grant of $188,450) from Congress and NEH. What, you ask, is the National Humanities Series? Ask anybody in Mineral Point, Wis., or Xenia, Ohio, or Webster, S.D.

The series, called "Time Out for Man" and headed by director Bill Fegan, is designed to "provide on exemplary pattern for conveying humanistic knowledge and insight to general public audiences . . . to conduct visits by scholars to nonacademic audiences throughout the United States . . . visiting scholars to work singly and in teams to demonstrate that in our complex world, the humanist's voice should be heard."

Of course, some people are going to say that $6 million in tax money could be better spent in building highways or, perhaps, on watershed programs.

To those people, again let me say, "E Pluribus Unum." Et cetera.

A group of 30 small communities—from Dalton, Ga., to Luverne, Minn.; Bator, N.M., to Seaford, Del.—was chosen to receive the initial offerings of "some of America's finest young processors" and enter-tainers.

Some of the communities were enthusiastic about the programs; some were not.

"We ran up against some resistance," admitted Fegan. "The newspaper in Whitesburg, Ky., wouldn't write anything about the series."

Other places, like Webster and Liberal, Kan., loved the idea, loved the series and loved the people who gave it.

"I just returned from Webster," Fegan said. "We were up at 2:30 in the morning, 30 of us, just sitting around rapping."

In Liberal, members of the series asked kids to come carrying musical instruments and poems—anything they could share. The audience was half white and half black. "It was the first time that whites and Negroes ever sat down together," Fegan said.

tabling my own identity," she said. "Not necessarily as a star, but at least an identity."

"My goal changes as I go along. If I do a big part well, then I want to do a small part brilliantly. I want to keep growing, not become static, and keep experiencing new emotions, good or bad."

"But to me life is fun. My philosophy? Well, I kind of like the advice a girl friend once gave me: 'Relax, to thine own self be true—and lie like hell to everyone else.' But I don't think she really meant it. The same with people."

She says she has no present plans to marry. She likes to dress and live informally. Her home is a tiny beach shack near Malibu.

Asked what she would like to be at 70, Jackie said:

"I'd like to be a marvelously eccentric old lady who makes people laugh and who listens to children."

MEZZO REPRESENTS U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mezzo-soprano Betty Allen has been invited to represent the United States in a cultural festival to be held in Costa Rica as part of the inaugural activities of President-elect Figueres.

Miss Allen will give two recitals in San Jose and one in Puntarenas.

Her visit will be under the auspices of the Department of State's Cultural Presentations Program.

Film Star Shuns Sex Image Billing

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jacqueline Bisset is the kind of girl a man would turn to look at twice even if he were fleeing a sinking ship.

But attractive as she is with her striking figure, copper-brown hair and 250-watt, gray-green eyes, Miss Bisset, one of the most rapidly rising young international film stars, has no desire to be billed as a sex image.

"I don't think of myself as that at all," she said. "When they tell me to be sexy in a photograph, I don't know what they mean."

"Do they mean you should hike your skirt up or stick your tongue out? It's ridiculous."

"What makes a person sexy is liking the opposite sex. It's more mental than physical. There are a lot of birds around who dress in a sexy fashion, but who aren't at all sexy in their minds. They are just doing a narcissistic trick in their heads."

"A French woman, even if plain, is attractive because she is aware of being a woman and feels like a woman. That makes a man feel more masculine."

During a brief career as a London model, Jackie—as her friends know her now—had such nicknames as "Jackson," "The Biscuit," and "B.B.B." for "big-bottomed broad."

"But they can't call me by the last one now—that's gone," said Miss Bisset, with the pleasant complacency of a girl who tapes in at 36-24-36.

Only 24, Jackie already has been in 11 films, including "The Detective," "Bullitt," and "Airport." She has appeared with such top male stars as Frank Sinatra, Albert Finney, Dean Martin, and Steve McQueen. In her latest picture, "The Grasshopper," she is costarred with Jim Brown and plays the title role of a Las Vegas lass with elastic morals.

She feels that she has reached a difficult point in her career.

"I've been identified with so many famous male stars that now I have the problem of es-

Court Dismisses $1.5 Million Leopold Suit

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Supreme Court upheld Wednesday dismissal of a $1.5 million suit by Nathan Leopold, who claimed his right to privacy was violated by the book "Compulsion," and the movie based on the book.

Leopold, 65, was paroled in 1963 for his part in the 1934 thrill slaying of 14-year-old Bobby Franks. Leopold's partner in the crime, Richard Loeb, was stabbed to death in prison in 1936.

The Supreme Court said the Constitution "assured liberty of expression in a matter of public interest and the lasting public attention to the crime which became an American cause celebre."

The opinion said the stated purpose of the author, Meyer Levin, was to "discover the psychological motivation behind this monstrous deed."

STATE OF ILLINOIS ) ) SS.

COUNTY OF MORGAN ) CERTIFICATE RE RESOLUTION FIXING BANKING DAYS AND HOURS AND DEFINING SERVICE TO BE RENDERED EFFECTIVE JUNE 15, 1970.

The undersigned, JAN BLUE, Secretary of the Board of Directors of THE FARMERS STATE BANK AND TRUST COMPANY, an Illinois banking association, with its place of business at 200 West State Street, Jacksonville, Illinois, hereby certifies that at a regular meeting of said Board of Directors held May 26, 1970, at which a quorum was present the following resolution was duly adopted:

"RESOLVED that Section 18, Paragraph (a) of the By-Laws as amended, be and is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 18. Office Hours (a) From and after 9 o'clock a.m. Monday, June 15, 1970, the Drive-In Windows and Walk-Up Windows in connection therewith shall be open for business conducted at them as follows: 9 o'clock a.m. to 2:30 o'clock p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday; and on Friday from 9 o'clock a.m. to 7 o'clock p.m.; and from 8:30 o'clock a.m. to 12 o'clock noon on Saturdays.

Services provided by Drive-In Windows and Walk-Up Windows in connection therewith on Saturday is limited to receiving deposits, cashing checks, receiving installment loan payments, receiving real estate loan payments and making available to customers, requesting them, night-depository bags, however, none shall be opened and processed for deposit until the following Monday.

All other departments of the Bank shall be open for business daily from 9 o'clock a.m. to 2:30 o'clock p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and 9 o'clock a.m. to 2:30 p.m. 4 o'clock p.m. to 7 o'clock p.m. on Friday.

All departments of the Bank shall be closed on Sundays and on all legal holidays except Lincoln's Birthday, Washington's Birthday, Good Friday, Columbus Day and Veterans' Day.

Be it further resolved that a certified copy of this resolution shall be filed with the Recorder of Deeds of Morgan County, Illinois, and shall be published once a week for three successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in said county."

The undersigned further certifies that he has charge of the records of THE FARMERS STATE BANK AND TRUST COMPANY, Jacksonville, Illinois.

Given under my hand and seal of said Bank this 27th day of May, 1970. SEAL Jan Blue Secretary of the Board of Directors of THE FARMERS STATE BANK AND TRUST COMPANY.

The decision upheld the Cook County Circuit Court which dismissed the case.

In another ruling, the high court affirmed disorderly conduct convictions of five Chicago persons for failing to obey police orders to disperse.

The defendants—Johnny Lee Fort, Edward Bey, Andrew McChristian, Jeff Fort and Buena Bey—were among 15 to 20 persons involved in blocking a sidewalk on July 29, 1968.

The opinion said the conduct of the group, in refusing to follow a police command to disperse, violated a Chicago ordinance.

"We see no constitutional infirmity in a narrowly drawn ordinance which permits the police to arrest those who fail to comply with such an order, whether they are spectators or participants in the underlying disturbance," the Supreme Court said.

Conviction of two men who refused to testify in 1968 before the Illinois Crime Investigating Commission also was upheld in another opinion.

Albert Sarno and Chris Card had refused to testify at hearings on the "juice loan" racket in Chicago and were taken before a Circuit Court judge who granted them immunity from prosecution and directed them to testify.

The two men were sentenced to six months in jail for contempt.

Girl Scouts To Participate Memorial Day

Cottage Parents Honor Two ISD Housemothers

Two housemothers at Illinois School for the Deaf were honored by the members of the Cottage Parents of ISD at the May meeting of the organization, which closed the activities for this school year. They were Mrs. Mary Bentley of Unit 5, with 19 years service, and Mrs. Mary Priest, BI dorm, with over 18 years service. Both are retiring this year and received from the Cottage Parents lovely gifts of appreciation.

Lawrence Huot, dean of students, spoke regarding a visit by the assistant dean, Harold Kund, to the Missouri School for the Deaf. Also taking the trip were Mrs. Hazel Alred, Mrs. Vicki Seeman, Mrs. Marguerite Witmer, Mrs. Irene Edwards, Theodore Zimmer, Mrs. Mittie Marshall and Mrs. Lucille Cowhick, dormitory supervisors.

Guests at the meeting of the Cottage Parents were Mr. Huot, Mrs. Kund, Ralph Anton and the honorees, Mrs. Bentley and Mrs. Priest.

Lovely refreshments were served from a table appointed in spring motif by Unit V Cottage Parents, host group for the meeting.

According to the National Geographic Society, collecting rocks is probably the nation's fastest growing hobby, ranking with stamp collecting.

'Defense' Kit For Enlistee's Parents?

An open letter to parents whose sons have voluntarily joined the armed services: Dear Perplexed Parents, I address you as "perplexed" because I am assuming you are as puzzled as I was with the reactions you got from family, close friends, casual acquaintances and out-and-out strangers when you announced your child's decision to go into the service.

Frankly, I was a bit surprised when my eldest son told us he planned to join the United States Navy after his graduation from high school in June. We had assumed he would enter the university and study engineering. But, after discussing with him what we considered the advantages and disadvantages of his choice, we said, as we have said to him so often in the past, "Now you must make your own decision." (This wasn't difficult for us. His decision-making started many years ago with such things as choosing which socks he would wear with his little green playsuit, progressing through the years, step by step, to making very important decisions.)

We soon discovered others questioned his right to decide how he would spend the next few years of his life.

I am sure your experience parallels ours. If you say, "My son is going to join the submarine service," you'll receive one of the following typical replies:

— What a shame! You mean his grades are so bad he can't get into college?
— I see! Afraid he'd be drafted, was he?
— How COULD you let him sell out to the military? You're sending him off to become a killer!

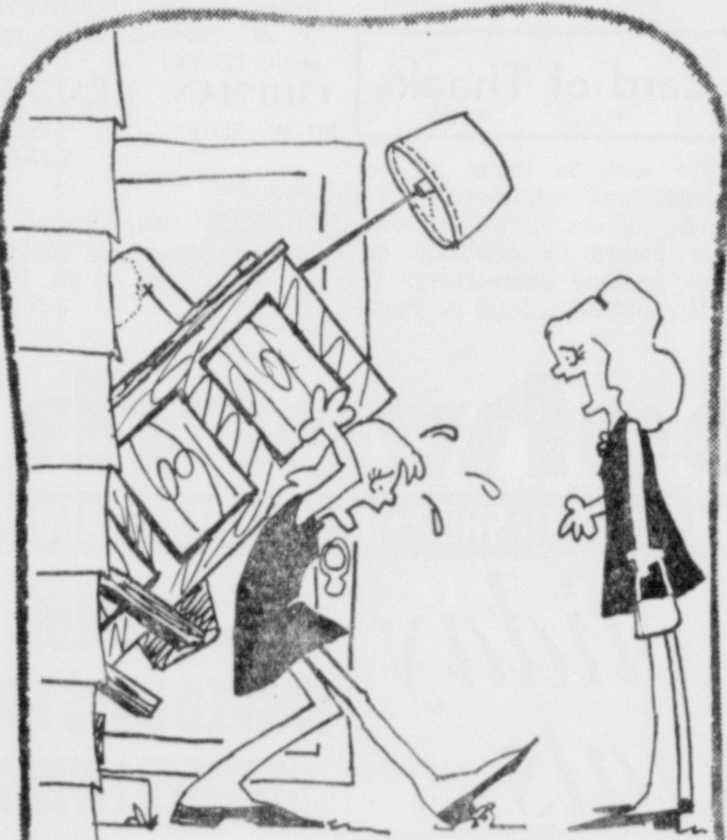

— Amerika! (That's no typo—in this remark, it is spelled with a "k.") One more boy taken in by American fascists!

Now, the truth is, our investigation of his motives has turned up no coercion by black-shirted fascists. Our son had excellent grades and had been accepted by the school of his choice. He doesn't seem to display any "superpatriot" symptoms and, according to all the evidence we have, he doesn't seem to harbor any deep-seated killer instincts.

I must admit that with the sort of reaction we've been getting, I have been tempted to stop saying he is joining the Navy. I'm beginning to get the idea that I'd have an easier time of it if I announced, "He intends to do the commune scene when he gets out of school."

Experience tells me that if we said our son planned to go to Canada to avoid the draft, we'd be advised to tell him to follow his conscience, to make his own decision because, after all, his principles and his life are involved.

Actually, that is exactly what we have done—told him it's his life. And, to date, I don't plan to do anything else. Except, perhaps, write to the Pentagon and suggest it print up some sort of kit for parents whose sons voluntarily join the armed forces. The least they could do is give us a few suggestions on how to answer the kids' critics.

LOVELY NEW HOME . . . and the furniture won't fit? Don't fight it! Stop in and select lovely new furniture today . . . you can have months to pay.

Kuhn: Without Clause Baseball Is Dead

SPORTS DIARIES POSE A DANGER

A situation that one day may become a major headache for professional sports has this week had another chapter written.

Journeyman pitcher Jim Bouton has penned one of those 'tell-all' diaries about his major league baseball career for LOOK magazine, with the first installment this week, and wrecked a few images.

The situation of which we speak has been magnified somewhat in recent years by a flurry of such diaries, started by Green Bay Packer lineman Jerry Kramer's "Green Bay Diary", an instant best-seller.

THE FORMULA for success for such books or magazine installment items is really quite simple: Stun the readers with anecdotes concerning the top names in the particular sport, the wilder and more image-wrecking the better. Kramer, for instance, cut up Vince Lombardi pretty good, as well as some of his teammates.

Bouton wasted little time in repeating the script in his "My Love/Hate Affair with Baseball." The 32-year-old Bouton, who won 21 games in 1963, his second year in baseball with the Yankees, took it from the top. Bouton called Yankee favorite Mickey Mantle everything from a drunkard to a prima-donna who demanded special treatment and labeled manager Ralph Houk a dishonest back-stabber, proceeding to tell stories about former teammates and managers that are sure to raise more than a few eyebrows.

SUCH WRITINGS raise a basic question that may well soon be settled once and for all: How much loyalty does a professional athlete owe to his teammates and a particular sport?

Every profession has its unwritten rules and professional sports are no exception. All employers expect various matters to be kept within the immediate circles, and admittedly have the right to demand such loyalty.

There are those who will claim that pro athletes are a different case in point. The argument would contend that pro athletes depend on the paying customer, and the fan has the right to know what goes on off the field as well as on. The news media is depended upon to provide such insights.

As a member of the news media with some experience around professional athletes, we have some thoughts on the subject.

FIRST OF ALL, a pro athlete does owe something special to the public. He takes the fans' money and therefore is subject to more scrutiny than a salesman or a laborer. But, it is asking too much to not give the athlete any privacy at all.

Secondly, statements or comments always look much more final and definite in print or over the air. A harmless crack among friends seems much more serious if it gets into print.

We have been around professional baseball and football players enough to pen a few shockers if we wanted to make a big deal out of comments or actions of players in the dugout or in the clubhouse. Let's face it, ballplayers are all human and they like to joke as well as the next guy.

For many years it seemed to be an unwritten law that if an athlete had a beef he wished to put into print, he waited until his career was over and his teammates were no longer active. The great Ty Cobb, for instance, had many axes to grind and his "My Life in Baseball, The True Story," was the hottest, most critical sports publication this writer has ever picked up. But Cobb wrote the book, or had it 'ghost-written', while he was dying. Many other athletic greats handled their autobiographies in much the same way.

IT ISN'T TOO hard to realize why the trend has changed. Writing and tastes have changed rapidly in recent years, with more sensationalism the byword. LOOK very likely would not have used up the several pages with Bouton commenting on the usual and casual side of baseball.

It is also easy to see how individuals, teams and even baseball, football or whatever could be hurt by such diaries. Whether or not accusations are true doesn't matter too much to many readers. A certain amount will stick and undoubtedly hurt a player or a team in the mind of the reader.

As we said before, items in print can be presented in such a way, out of context, that they come out distasteful to many. Even if you contend that a professional athlete's life is not his own, he still may be slandered by a poison pen.

TWO THINGS bother us about articles such as the one by Bouton. Bouton, now a knuckleballer hanging on by a thread, is more a loser than a winner. A winner can get away with more blasting than a loser, because a winner doesn't have to make excuses. Secondly, Bouton is a baseball player, not a writer, and would seem to be taking advantage of his associates in a field in which he cares only about the money angle.

What can be done? It's hard to say. It is hard to visualize how a professional team could prohibit a player from letting the clubhouse secrets out after his services are no longer required. A gentleman's agreement seems the only possibility, but you know how long those things last.

Cepeda, Garrido Carry Atlanta To 3-1 Decision

ATLANTA (AP) — Orlando Cepeda and Gil Garrido cracked home runs in a six-run second inning Wednesday night as the Atlanta Braves handed the Houston Astros their seventh defeat in eight games 8-1.

Garrido ripped his first major league homer to left scoring pitcher Phil Niekro 5-6, who had singled. Felix Milan doubled down the third base line, Hank Aaron beat out an infield roller and Rico Carty singled to center, scoring Millan and knocking Astro starter Denny Lemaster, 3-6, out of the game.

Cepeda jumped on the first pitch by reliever Jim Ray and belted his 11th home run of the year into the left field seats.

Joe Pipitone cracked his ninth homer to right in the fourth for Houston.

Moose, Clemente Help Tip Cubs, 4-0

CHICAGO (AP) — Roberto Clemente's bases-loaded, two-run single in the fifth inning and Bob Moose's four-hit pitching led the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs Wednesday.

Moose, boosting his record to 4-4, retired the first 13 Cubs to face him before Jim Hickman's double with one out in the fifth.

Moose out-duced Chicago's Fergy Jenkins, a 20-game winner the past three seasons, who suffered his seventh loss against three victories.

The decisive Pittsburgh fifth developed after Jenkins apparently had worked his way out of a jam following a leadoff double by Bill Mazeroski and Gene Alley's single.

Mazeroski was nailed at the plate on Moose's grounder to short and Matty Alou flied out for the second out.

But Richie Hebner walked, filling the bases and Clemente singled to center, scoring Alley and Moose for a 3-0 Pittsburgh lead.

Unser, Leonard Post Top Speeds

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Pole starter Al Unser and teammate Joe Leonard posted top speeds at Indianapolis Motor Speedway Wednesday as drivers got in their final practice for Saturday's 500-mile race.

Unser, who celebrates his 31st birthday Thursday, was clocked at 169.2 miles per hour and Leonard at 168.5 as all of Saturday's 33 starters took part in carburation runs.

It was the last time the speedway will be open to drivers and cars prior to the noon (EDT) start.

The practice session, lasting from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m., allowed the teams to check their rebuilt machines, work on fuel and tire charts, and plan strategy for the race itself.

Unser, consistently the fastest driver in three weeks of practice, won the pole spot at 170.221 m.p.h. on the first of four days of qualifying. Leonard, in a Colt-turbobcharged Ford, identical to Unser's, got in on the second day at 166.898 m.p.h.

Explaining his sudden jump into the 168 range, almost two miles per hour faster than anything he did earlier, Leonard said:

"I haven't raced since last December, and it took a while for me to find the groove when I got here in May. We had some other problems, too, that caused us to qualify slower. We're in the groove now."

Leonard, 32, of San Jose, Calif., will start in the 18th spot in the lineup, but most observers now predict he'll come up fast once the $800,000 plus classic gets under way.

Dan Gurney, who finished second at Indianapolis the last two years, had Wednesday's third fastest speed, 167.754 m.p.h. in an Eagle-turbobcharged Offenhauser of his own design.

Several drivers were in the 166 range, including front row starter Johnny Rutherford. The Fort Worth, Tex., driver's Eagle-turbobcharged Offenhauser brought out the day's only yellow light when the brakes overheated, causing a minor fire. The car escaped damage.

Others in the 166 m.p.h. group were the 1968 winner, Bobby Unser; three-time winner A. J. Foyt Jr.; Art Pollard; Peter Revson, and Mark Donohue.

Most of the other drivers were clocked in the 161-165 m.p.h. range. With rare exceptions, the cars had full loads of fuel.

IC's Orr High In PCC Figures

Illinois College's hard-hitting outfielder Rich Orr figured high in several offensive categories in the final Prairie College Conference baseball statistics released this week.

Orr, a freshman from Perry, held the lead in home runs (9) and runs batted in (28), was third in triples (1), fifth in doubles (5) and sixth in batting average (.365).

IC's Dennis Castlebury was eighth (.348) and Robin Manker tenth (.333) in batting averages.

Other Blueboys figuring in the PCC statistics included Glen Phillips, third in stolen bases with four; Manker, third in strikeouts with 46; and hurler Kent Wildrick, third in total wins (5) and second in shutouts with one.

Commissioner First Witness For Defense

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball can not survive without the reserve system in the opinion of Commissioner Bowie Kuhn who testified in Federal Court Wednesday for the defense in Curt Flood's $3 million antitrust suit.

The 43-year-old commissioner, first witness for the defense, said the end of the reserve system would result in the well-to-do clubs attracting all the star players and the lesser teams going out of business.

"Without the reserve clause," said Kuhn, "baseball could not operate on a league basis ... perhaps ... at the exhibition level."

Asked by his lawyer, Victor Kramer, if baseball could continue to function satisfactorily without the reserve system, Kuhn said, "In my opinion, it could not."

Kuhn said the reserve system, a complex set of rules that provide a club with the option to renew a player's contract each year, was needed to equalize team strength, assure player development, protect the integrity of the game and attract capital to the game so it might operate.

The commissioner traced the early history of the game in detail and said this history demonstrated it would be "impossible to maintain the integrity of the game and maintain honesty among clubs and players" without the reserve system.

Flood, former St. Louis Cardinal center fielder who refused to accept his trade to Philadelphia last winter, is challenging the reserve system in his antitrust suit.

Kuhn said "chaotic conditions that threatened the very existence of baseball" existed in the period between 1871 and 1879 when no reserve system was in operation. He said players "revolved" from club to club during and after the season.

"Before the system was adopted there was a most unhealthy climate," he said.

"Players had little respect for the system and dishonesty became rampant." He said there was some truth to the saying in those days the only people who bothered to go to the games were the gamblers. He added players fixed games and clubs arranged for one team to win one day and another the next.

Kuhn said only two clubs operated at a profit in that period, the Boston Red Stockings and Cincinnati Red Stockings.

When the commissioner was asked what would happen if five-year veterans were permitted to veto trades, as Hall of Famer Hank Greenberg suggested last week, he said such a system would have "a significant adverse affect on baseball." He said the effect would be significant, but to a lesser degree, if applied to 10-year players and minimal if applied to 15 or 16 year veterans.

Kuhn said such a system would inhibit trading which he considers important for equalizing clubs and also for publicity. He also said information of proposed trades would leak out and would have an adverse affect on player morale.

Most of the day was spent in direct testimony by Kuhn who outlined various objections to proposals to modify the reserve system that had been suggested in previous testimony.

Gentry And Mets Blank Cards, 3-0

NEW YORK (AP) — Gary Gentry fired a three-hitter and the New York Mets blanked the St. Louis Cardinals 3-0 Tuesday night.

Gentry 5-2, struck out nine and got all the offense he needed in the fourth inning when Cleon Jones delivered a bases-loaded, two-out single to drive in two runs.

Joe Foy walked with one out in the fourth and Jerry Grote followed with a single sending Foy to third. On the throw, Grote raced to second. Al Weis was intentionally walked, loading the bases and Steve Carlton struck out Gentry for the second out. But Jones, batting leadoff for the first time this season, followed with a two-run single.

The Mets got Gentry another run in the eighth when Tommie Agee and Donn Clendenon pulled a double steal and Carlton followed with a balk.

Padres' Hitters Masquerading As Slugging Cincinnati Reds

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Either San Diego Padres hitters are masquerading as the hard-hitting Cincinnati Reds or they're plenty matured after their powder-puff freshman season in the National League.

The Padres have clubbed 60 home runs in their first 49 games, a pace that would easily eclipse Cincinnati's league high of 171 in 1969.

The Padres, though last in the Western Division with a 21-28 record, slugged four homers—two by Nate Colbert — while drubbing the Reds, 8-1 and 4-1, Tuesday night at San Diego Stadium. Cincinnati, 32-14, leads the Western Division.

While Colbert leads the club with 16 homers, five other Padres have belted five or more. There was a club record of five homers last Saturday in a 15-inning, 17-16 victory over San Francisco.

Last year, San Diego hit no more than three homers in any game and only 99 for the season. It was the league's worst hitting team at .225, about 20 points below the current average.

Colbert, who hit 24 homers last year, was expected to be among the league leaders, but the biggest surprise on the club has been center fielder Clarence Gaston.

Gaston ripped six straight hits in the doubleheader against the Reds, including two triples and a three-run homer. He had a single his last time up Monday night for a string of seven straight hits before popping up in the fifth inning of the second game.

Manager Preston Gomez showed great patience with the 26-year-old Gaston, and it paid off. Clarence, the Padres' 30th and last expansion draft choice, struck out often and needed a late-season surge to hit .230 in 1969. He had only two home runs in 391 trips to the plate. Gaston has seven homers, six triples and eight doubles and a batting average over .330 in about 185 at-bats this year. "I always had trouble with a hitch in my swing, but I'm holding the bat higher now," said Gaston.

Gomez attributes his team's improved hitting to maturity and confidence.

Regan On 'Mystery' Pitch

CHICAGO (AP) — Relief pitcher Phil Regan of the Chicago Cubs has mixed emotions about rival clubs and umpires needing him over his "mystery" pitch.

The Cincinnati Reds and Chris Pelekoudas' National League umpiring crew particularly have been giving Regan a tough time over whether he throws a wet or greasy pitch at times.

"My wife doesn't know whether I throw it, so I'm not going to tell you," the 33-year-old Regan informed sports writer Ed Stone of Chicago Today.

"I sort of like the hitters to complain. Then they're concentrating more on me than what I'm throwing.

"When I face a good hitter, I make sure he's looking right at me before I go to my mouth or forehead—it's a sort of psychological weapon.

"But after they (umpires) check me once and don't find anything, I wish they'd leave me alone. When they come out every pitch it's hard to concentrate."

The fuss over whether Regan doctors his pitches has been going on since 1968, when the Reds and Pelekoudas started making it a big issue. "Pelekoudas has checked me so often that we're almost like old friends," said Regan. "This year he gave me his handkerchief and told me to wipe my forehead. I asked him if I could blow my nose, and he said 'go ahead.'"

"The umpires don't have uniform rules. One crew says I can get off the mound and go to my mouth. Another crew says I should stay on the mound and go to my forehead to rub up the ball."

In 1968, Regan was absolved by NL President Warren Giles. He had a minimum of complaints last year when he had a 12-6 record with 17 saves.

"I have an idea why it started up again," Phil said. "This year, there's a new president (Chub Feeney) and maybe they want to see what he'll do."

"As a relief pitcher, I'm in a lot of close games, and the strategy is to try to upset me."

"Saturday, I came in against the Mets when we were ahead 14-7 and nothing was said. Sunday, when the Cubs led only 2-1, the Mets wanted the ump to check me on every pitch. A lot of times the hitter just wants an alibi."

Reds' New Park Will Be Ready

CINCINNATI (AP) — City Officials announced Wednesday that the Cincinnati Reds will move into the new Riverfront Stadium June 30 and the All-Star baseball game can be played there July 14 barring a construction workers strike.

Allied contractors meanwhile, opened joint negotiations with 22 construction unions in an attempt to come to settlements before their work contracts run out June 1.

The game would be held in Atlanta if Cincinnati is not ready. Baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn had given the city until May 30 to have a definite answer on whether the stadium would be ready for the All-Star game.

Huber, Hunt & Nichols Inc., Indianapolis, Ind., general contractors, are obligated to have the stadium available for the game under their contract with the city. But there was no contractual agreement to allow the Reds to begin play in the park before completion of the stadium, a company official said.

Cincinnati city manager Richard Krabach announced that the Reds would be in the new stadium June 30 after a meeting of city, contractor and Reds officials Wednesday. He said they had come to an agreement "assuming that there are not strikes at the stadium."

The Reds are scheduled to open a three game series with the Atlanta Braves June 30.

Buford's Single Lets Baltimore Gain 5-1 Margin

BALTIMORE (AP) — Don Buford's bases-loaded single drove in the tying and lead runs as the Baltimore Orioles rallied for three runs in the seventh inning Wednesday night and beat Cleveland 5-4, their sixth straight victory over the Indians.

The Indians had gone ahead 3-2 with a three-run uprising in the top of the seventh that routed Baltimore starter Jim Palmer.

But reliever Mike Paul began the bottom of the inning by walking Dave Johnson. After Merv Rettenmund, the first of three consecutive pinch hitters, struck out, Andy Elchebarrren singled and Curt Motton walked, loading the bases and setting the stage or Buford's single.

The third run of the inning came on Mark Belanger's infield roller.

THE LITTLE BOSTON Marathon was held for the second year Wednesday. YMCA physical fitness class members donned their jogging gear and ran from the square to the 'Y' building on the west side of town, about two miles. Approximately 24 people took part in the activity.

24 'Winners' In Marathon

Six ladies, fifteen men, one grade school boy, and two staff members emerged victorious in the Jacksonville YMCA's Second Annual "Little Boston" Marathon.

The Marathon was created last year out of a need to challenge members of the YMCA Fitness Programs, and to make other adults in Jacksonville aware of the tremendous advantages gained from participation in such fitness programs. It was decided that a run from Jacksonville Square to the YMCA (about 2½ miles) would be an ideal challenge.

Speed had nothing to do with declaring "winners" although times were taken to provide all with their own personal challenge. "Winners" were all those who successfully completed the distance, and all twenty-four of this years participants were "winners."

Leading the men members was Dr. Thomas Stevens with a time of 13:40. Heading the women runners was Mrs. Lawrence Crawford, Jr. with a 22:40. Roger Deem, the Grade School boy, finished with 23:15.

Johnson's Homer In Ninth Inning Nets 3-0 Count

MONTREAL (AP) — Deron Johnson walloped a three-run homer with two out in the ninth Wednesday, breaking up a scoreless duel between Philadelphia's Woody Fryman and giving the Phillies a 3-0 victory.

Both hurlers traded three-hitters through eight innings. But Fryman opened the ninth with a single and with one out Denny Doyle drew a walk. McGinn struck out Larry Hise but Johnson then slammed his 10th home run of the year, an opposite field smash over the right field fence.

The only hits off Fryman, 3-2, were singles by Gary Sutherland in the third, Rusty Staub in the sixth, Ron Fairly in the eighth and Adolfo Phillips in the ninth.

Ed Kirkpatrick drove in a pair of runs for the Royals with singles in the first and third innings. His second hit snapped a 2-2 tie and two innings later Bob Oliver unloaded a home run for a 4-2 Kansas City lead.

Early New York Uprising Downs Detroit By 4-2

DETROIT (AP) — The New York Yankees tagged Joe Niekro for three runs in the first inning, two on a single by Curt Blefary, and beat the Detroit Tigers 4-2 Wednesday night.

After retiring the first two batters, Niekro 4-4, walked Bobby Murcer. Roy White singled and Danny Cater followed with an RBI single. Blefary then belted the third straight single, scoring White and Cater, who had taken second on the throw to the plate following his hit.

Fritz Peterson, 7-2, started for New York but was relieved by Jack Aker as Detroit rallied for a run in the sixth on singles by Dick McAuliffe and Al Kaline and a sacrifice fly by Willie Horton.

The Tigers had scored a run in the third on singles by Elliott Maddox, Cesar Gutierrez and McAuliffe.

New York added an unearned insurance run off Niekro in the fourth.

Iowa All-Stater Inks For Illini

CHAMPAIGN — Iowa All-State basketball guard C. J. Schroeder, from Davenport West high school, has signed a national letter of intent to enroll at the University of Illinois this fall. It was announced today by basketball Coach Harv Schmidt.

The 6-4, 180-pound Schroeder was coached in high school by Dave Wessel.

"Player of the Year" in the Quad Cities, Schroeder set school scoring records for one year and career. He averaged 24 points per game with 50 per cent accuracy from the field and 84 per cent from the free line. His season high was 42 against Rock Island, and he had 37 against Moline and Iowa champion, Davenport Central; 36 against Illinois runnerup East Moline.

Schroeder also holds season and career records at Davenport West for assists and rebounds.

He was an All-Quad City selection.

BEARS SIGN PAIR

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears signed Wednesday as free agents, Jack Erdman of Fresno State and Mike Scrivner of San Jose State, both listed as defensive back candidates.

Erdman set a Fresno State school career record with 16 who also played offense as a wide receiver, lettered three years as a track sprinter at San Jose.

Hint Bullpen Aces Should Get Notice

ST. PAUL — MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minnesota's almost untouchable relief pair of Ron Peranoski and Stan Williams subtly hint that it's about time bullpen aces get their share of recognition in the All-Star game.

The Twins' firemen, among the league's finest this season, aren't demanding that they be selected to the American League squad for the July 14 classic against the National League.

But they want Earl Weaver, who selects the pitching staff as manager of defending champion Baltimore, to consider relievers.

"Relief pitchers are just as important as starters," said Peranoski. "Teams that win the pennant win it with their bullpens. I don't see why we should be shunned just because we don't start. They pick 10 pitchers. Why not have a left-hander and right-hander from the bullpen?"

"I'm not saying relief pitchers will help the American League break their jinx," said Peranoski. "The more important thing is that relievers finally get a chance."

The National League has won seven straight all-star games. Peranoski and Williams, both former National Leaguers with Los Angeles have fine records.

Peranoski has appeared in 19 games, won three and saved 12. Williams has worked in 18 games, won four and saved one. Both earned run averages are below 1.70.

Peranoski, disappointed last year when he had 31 saves and was not named to the AL staff, is a left-hander. Williams, who pitched in the 1960 All Star game when he was a Dodger starter, is a right-hander.

NFL Is Probing Nightspot Owned By Wheelwright

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League is investigating the ownership of a Me-tair, La., nightspot by running back Ernie Wheelwright of the New Orleans Saints, Commissioner Pete Rozelle said Wednesday.

Rozelle said Wheelwright, who opened the bar about 10 days ago, had been contacted several weeks ago by league security officials who "expressed great concern to him" about the business venture.

Sports Illustrated magazine, in its current issue, reported that the league had asked the 30-year-old NFL veteran to give up the bar because of question-able ownership of the building in which it is situated.

The magazine said Wheelwright refused.

Asked if such a request had been made, Rozelle replied, "Our security people told him they thought it would be wise on the basis of the information we had received."

"We are continuing to explore it. But I am not prepared to comment further at this time. We want to get the rest of the information before we decide what position to take, and then convey that position to him."

Wheelwright has not been directed to sell his interest, Rozelle said, drawing a line between the New Orleans inquiry and last year's Joe Namath situation, when the Commissioner ordered the New York Jets' quarterback to give up a Manhattan nightspot called Bachelor's III because the place reputedly was frequented by undesirable.

Ruby: 10 Or 12 Could Win Indy

EDITORS NOTE: Lloyd Ruby, who will compete in his 11th Indianapolis 500-mile auto race Saturday, rates the competition in the third in a series of five articles written for The Associated Press. In future articles, he will tell what he thinks about during the race and his future plans.

By LLOYD RUBY
Written for
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—I figure 10 or 12 drivers are capable of winning the Indianapolis 500 this year, even though there are 33 guys right now who think they can win the race or else they wouldn't even be in the starting field.

But I really feel there are only 10 or 12 individuals who will be competitive as long as their equipment holds up. In that respect, I think my car is stronger than any car here.

The guys I think will be competitive right from the start are Al Unser and his brother Bobby, who won the race in 1968; A. J. Foyt, a three-time winner at Indy and one of the sport's greatest competitors; Mario Andretti, last year's winner; Roger McCluskey; Joe Leonard, who still holds the track qualifying record; Gordon Johncock, Johnny Rutherford, Art Pollard and Dan Gurney.

The Unsers, Foyt, Andretti and McCluskey always charge. They like to run up front and always make an effort to get there. I figure these guys will be fighting it out up front while I'm trying to get up there with them from 25th starting position.

I'll tell you, I enjoy racing Al, A. J. and Roger any time, especially at Indy. I don't mind running with these three guys side by side flat out all day long. I have a lot of confidence in their ability.

I think Leonard will be a factor this year. He has top equipment. Johncock hasn't done anything spectacular so far this month but he always comes

Hard Thing To Cut Boy From Squad

By DEL BOOTH
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—A former professional star thinks the hardest thing about coaching college baseball is "when you have to cut a boy from the squad."

Bobby Richardson, star second baseman for 11 years with the New York Yankees before retiring in 1966, is getting his first taste of coaching at the University of South Carolina.

"When I came here two weeks before the season started," he says, "I didn't know what to expect. I find the great thing is working with the young men—and the worst is cutting them from the squad."

Eighty players responded to the baseball call late last winter "and we could keep only 25. I could hardly be sure about all the players in a two-week period," Richardson adds.

"It was difficult — for the boys who were cut, for the parents of some of them who called me, and for me."

Richardson, who gave up scouting and special work for the Yankee organization, and his work as a community relations specialist for a life insurance company when he joined the university staff, says he is glad he made the change.

"We were glad to get out of the rat race of professional baseball," Richardson says of his and his wife's reaction to retirement four years ago. "and we like it even better in the college game."

Richardson commutes 40 miles, keeping his home at Sumter where three of their five children are in school.

"Recruiting is the key to good college baseball, and I am just starting that. I want to recruit nationally. I have just lately had time to take in an occasion at high school game. I plan to expand my recruiting activity, in person and mail."

"College, high school, professional — it's all the same baseball game. As a coach-manager, though, I have had to learn, and learn quickly, to coach a boy for his best potential, and not criticize his mistakes."

"Aggressive baseball—that's the emphasis I put on the game—score more runs than the opposition — and win." His team is losing this first season, about two to one. "But we'll improve."

Richardson has not given up his unpaid work as one of several national representatives of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, which he enjoys and "at which I feel I am effective."

But he says he plans to stick with college coaching, having "already turned down offers to coach in the majors or manage in the high minors."

on strong in the race. Rutherford is starting on the front row this time, but I really don't know what he'll do. Pollard could be a factor and it's hard to say what Gurney will do with the new equipment he brought this year.

The worst problem I can foresee in the race is the guys whose equipment won't be capable of maintaining the pace. There's a tendency to overextend yourself when your equipment isn't up to it.

That causes problems. You don't have to ask for trouble here...you automatically get it. Without the experience of running in the oil after the track gets slick, many guys will find themselves in trouble real quick.

But everybody has to run on the same race track and I don't mean to make bad remarks about rookies or guys with little experience getting in the way. The guys running in their second or third race are the same guys who will be running at the front in a few years. After all, the drivers starting up front Saturday are the same guys who were getting in everybody's way a few years back. I probably did it myself. Naturally, I didn't think so at the time.

Unser Sparkles As Washington Clips Bosox 7-5

BOSTON (AP) — Del Unser led off the game with a homer on the first pitch and then ignited a three-run seventh with his third hit Wednesday night as the Washington Senators rallied for a 7-5 victory over the stumbling Boston Red Sox.

Unser, who started the game with a .193 average, scored three runs as Mike Epstein and Bernie Allen provided clutch hits against Boston starter Ray Culp, 3-6.

Epstein drove in two runs with a two-out bloop double in the seventh and then scored as Allen's line drive to right was misjudged by Tony Conigliaro and rolled to the wall for a triple.

Epstein tripled to right and scored on a single by Allen for Washington's second run in the first inning. Epstein also collected an RBI in the fifth when Washington scored two unearned runs to pull into a 4-4 tie. Washington 200 020 300-7 10 0

USAC Midgets Schedule Double Card This Week

INDIANAPOLIS — Three former USAC Midget champions and the 1970 point leader are among more than 60 drivers who are scheduled to compete in two nights of racing at Indiana tracks this weekend.

Bob Wente (1963), Mike McGreevy (1965 and 1966) and Bob Tattersall (1969) are the champions; Jimmy Caruthers is the point leader; and the tracks are Indianapolis Raceway Park on Friday night May 29, and Kokomo, Ind. on Saturday.

I.R.P. is the traditional "night before the '500" midget classic which annually draws some of the top names in racing as competitors and spectators.

Merle Bettenhausen, Johnny Parsons, Hank Butcher, Dave Strickland, Chuck Weyant, Lee Kunzman, Jigger Sirois, Tom Bigelow, Les Scott, Ray Elliott and Larry Rice are some of the leading point scoring drivers who will be competing on both nights, hoping to increase their midget championship.

Both the I.R.P. and the Kokomo races will start with warm-ups at 6:00 p.m. with qualifying at 7:00 p.m. and the first race at 8:30 p.m. Each program will consist of four heats, a semi, a trophy dash and a 50-lap feature.

WIN 1968 OLYMPICS

The fifth and sixth grades defeated the fourth and seventh grades 55-53 in the fifth annual Illinois Braille and Sight Saving School Junior Olympics Wednesday afternoon.

Mike Kolesar led the winning team with 20 points, including four firsts. Kolesar set records in the one-step high jump (3'11") and hop, step and jump (20'10"). David Whitener had 15 points and Julius Readers eight points.

Mark Harris led the losers with 13½ points, followed by Kevin Worley with 10½, Val Jordan 7, Bill Barker 5½ and Gregg Suddard 5.

The freshmen-sophomores will face the eighth grade juniors in the Senior Olympics Friday.

No Clear-Cut Choice In Rich Memphis Open

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — There was no clear-cut favorite for the top prize in the $150,000 Danny Thomas-Memphis Open Golf tournament, but Lee Trevino, Dave Hill and Gene Littler ranked high on the list of contenders.

The absence of a number of the game's top names left the field wide open with a dozen or more players sporting credentials that warrant close attention.

"It's almost impossible to single out anyone as a favorite," said Dan Sikes, himself one of the top candidates. "There are just too many good players out here now."

Among the missing from the expanded, 150-man field are Gary Player, who returned home to South Africa, and the game's three $1 million winners, Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Billy Casper.

Also skipping the event that opens Thursday on the short, 6,466 yard, par 70 Colonial Country Club course are Australian Bruce Devlin and Bert Yancey, both of whom have scored victories this year.

The field was expanded from the usual 144 when rain interrupted a playoff for the final few qualifying positions Monday and all the players in contention were given a pass into the field.

In addition to Trevino, Hill and Littler, other top choices for the $30,000 check that goes to the champion include such 1970 winners as Bob Lunn, Miller Barber, Don January and Homero Blancas.

GRANITE CITY NIPS STAUNTON BY 3-2

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Bill Parks singled home Gary Willis in the bottom of the 11th inning Wednesday to give Granite City a 3-2 victory over Staunton and the Springfield sectional baseball championship.

Parks had walked and advanced to third on Jerry Monahan's double. The losing pitcher was Dennis Smiley, his first defeat of the season after 12 victories.

Granite City now has a 26-6 record and a 17-game winning streak. In the state quarter-finals at Peoria next week, it meets Lane Tech of Chicago in the first round.

Must Learn To Swim To Enjoy Yourself In And Around Water

"Learning how to swim is the first rule for enjoying yourself in and around water," says Jerry Clardy, Youth Director, of the Sherwood Eddy Memorial YMCA, which will launch its second Annual Journal Courier — YMCA Free Learn-to-Swim Campaign on June 8.

"Swimming is easy, relaxing, and enjoyable, and the best time to learn is now." National statistics show that over 40 million Americans will seek fun in the sun through water sports this summer, but that only a fraction of them will know how to get the most out of swimming.

This is why there are over

7,000 needless drownings a year, many of whom are not swimming, but simply individuals who fall into the water. One in every 14 fatal accidents is a drowning, making this the fourth leading type of accident fatality. Therefore, it is an essential part of the education of every person to learn to take care of himself or herself in the water.

Parents have the responsibility to see that their children gain this protection, as well as for seeing that they themselves have he skills to react in an emergency situation.

The Journal Courier — YMCA is combining forces to see that all Greater Jacksonville Area residents have this opportunity through its Learn-to-Swim Campaign. Enrollment can be made simply by completing the attached coupon and taking it to the YMCA Registration Desk. The one-week free program will offer classes everyday with the goal of teaching water adjustment, swimming skills, and water safety.

Dangerous Occupations

Include Farm Workers

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Surprisingly enough, farming in this mechanized age is now rated as one of the most dangerous occupations in this country — a close second to the building trades. Among the approximately four million farm workers, 2,700 deaths and 230,000 injuries occur annually. Overturned tractors lead the list of causes. Such accidents are usually caused by operating at excessive speeds, especially on uneven ground. The highest rates are reported from mountainous areas and the lowest from areas with the least usage of heavy mechanical equipment. It is essential that all farm workers know the fundamentals of first aid because they work at a great distance from medical facilities and often work alone, without supervision and without adequate knowledge of the hazards involved in the use of their machines. One unalterable rule for tractor operators should be "No Riders." Farm accidents are preventable but the price of safety is constant vigilance.

Q—My doctor says I have a nervous stomach. I took belladonna but it made me sick, so I was given an anti-spasmodic but it didn't help either. Do you know of anything that might help me?
A—So-called nervous stomach may be due to various causes, but there is usually an underlying emotional disturbance. Unless this can be resolved, no medicine is going to help you much.
Q—I recently had a subtotal gastrectomy with an anterior gastrojejunostomy. What does this mean?
A—A part of your stomachs who are over 60. The only was removed and a loop of the treatment usually required is small intestine just beyond your occasional enema. But in duodenum, the jejunum, wasstead of eight ounces of warm attached to the front of your tap water, you should use one stomach in such a way that foodpint of water in which ½ tea-can pass directly into your je-spoon of salt has been dissolved.
Q—A recent X ray shows Please send your questions that I have an overly largeand comments to Wayne G. colon. What causes this? Is anyBrandstadt, M.D., in care of treatment necessary?
A—In most cases this con-stand cannot answer individual dition, megacolon, is a congeni-letters, he will answer letters tal abnormality but it may oc-of general interest in future cur as a result of aging in per-columns.

What's new on the market?
THE PRODUCT: A compound designed to prevent nuts and bolts from working loose from vibration or shock, a condition sometimes encountered on lawn sweepers and other machines, appliances and equipment which are rolled or driven in the area outside the house.
THE MANUFACTURER'S CLAIM: That this product is applied as a liquid from a plastic squeeze bottle to the first few threads of a nut . . . that the liquid self-hardens into a tough plastic that fills all spaces between the threads in the engaged area . . . that it holds tightly and will not rust nor corrode, yet can be dislodged with an ordinary wrench and can be relocked with new applications of the liquid at any time . . . and that the prior use of an accompanying product removes all grease and primes the metal parts for the application of the plastic sealant.

(The plastic sealant is by the Detroit Ball Bearing Company, 138 North Cedar St., Lansing, Mich. 48933; the swimming pool alarm by Gold Line, Muller Ave., Norwalk, Conn. 06852; the carpet runner by Cadillac Foam Products Co., 1246 Merchandise Mart, Chicago, Ill. 60654; and the toilet repair kit by Chicago Specialty Manufacturing Co., 7500 Linder Ave., Skokie, Ill. 60076.)

POPULARIZE JUDO
NEW DELHI (AP) — Members of Parliament are to be given lessons in judo—with the blessing of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, according to G.S. Swell, speaker of the lower house. In a letter to Swell, Mrs. Gandhi said she hopes the interest by parliamentarians will help to popularize judo all over India.

THE PRODUCT: A re-ic swimming pool alarm to provide an instant alert should anyone enter or fall into an unintended pool.

THE MANUFACTURER'S CLAIM: That the device is a foot-long sensor float which is positioned in the pool . . . that when there are waves any larger than wind ripples, the float's pendulum swings, trips an electronic circuit, sounding a loud alarm, either bell or horn . . . that it needs no professional installation, is perfectly safe and provides protection should children, pets or intruders enter or fall into the pool . . . that it plugs in and out at the home . . . and that its battery power lasts for at least a year.

THE PRODUCT: A polyethylene runner intended to extend the life of carpets, area rugs and hard surface floors.

THE MANUFACTURER'S CLAIM: That this runner protects the floor from mud, grime, spills and wetness . . . that it is made of translucent polyethylene which is abrasion-resistant and will not crack . . . that its top surface consists of "wells" to catch and hold wetness and dirt for outside disposal and to eliminate runoff at the edges . . . that grippers on the underside prevent sliding but won't harm carpet nap . . . and that a 3-inch border increases dimensional stability and helps prevent curling.

THE PRODUCT: A repair kit that contains everything necessary to replace a faulty leaking toilet tank mechanism.

THE MANUFACTURER'S CLAIM: That the kit contains a complete ballcock assembly which operates with a flexible ball chain . . . that the tank ball has a propeller which spins the ball into a perfect seat every time . . . that the kit contains a new flush lever and all necessary fittings . . . and that the enclosed instructions are the kind a do-it-yourselfer can follow.

APPLE CRUNCH
¾ cup sifted flour
¾ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup sugar
½ cup (1 stick) butter
5 or 6 medium cooking apples

½ cup coarsely chopped walnuts
Into a medium mixing bowl sift together the flour, salt, cinnamon and sugar. With a pastry blender thoroughly cut in butter until mixture looks like crumbs.
Peel, core and cut apples into eighths; slice crosswise thinly to make 6 cups. Turn apples into a rectangular baking pan (11 by 7 by 1½ inches); sprinkle with walnuts; pile flour mixture on top. (Pan will be very full, but apples sink during baking.)

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A year ago, Gregory Peck indicated that stodgy old Oscar was going to get a facelift. Now it has happened.

In recent times, critics have accused the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences of being establishment-oriented.
Oscar's gaze, they claimed, was toward Hollywood's golden but long-gone past.

These critics pointed to the recent Academy awards, which seemed to recognize the old-style entertainment movies while ignoring the excitement of the new cinema.

The accusations seemed to have some merit. Each year after the nominations have been announced, the Academy screens the nominated films in its theater. A glance over the audience at those screenings gives an indication of the membership. Many of those present have long retired from film making.

Gregory Peck has been no mere figurehead as president of the Academy. He was aware of the accusations of the geriatric nature of the Academy electorate, as well as the claims that pressures can be applied to swing votes.

Peck was also aware that there would be hurt feelings a widespread indignation if the Academy made any abrupt changes in its membership.

"The Board of Governors instituted a two-year study of the member roster," said a spokesman. "The Board realized that the passage of time had made some branch affiliations inappropriate. A committee went through the list, branch by branch and member by member."

The review brought changes in status for 497 members. Forty-nine were changed from one branch to another—for example, a writer who had become a director. One hundred and nine were switched from branches to being members-at-large. They were mostly members who had been inactive in films; they can now vote for the awards but not for the nominations in their own crafts.

Three hundred and thirty-nine members were made associates, which means they cannot vote for awards. The Academy has also tightened up the rules on qualifications for new members; more experience in films will be required.

Last week Peck announced another change: the members of the public relations branch were being switched to associate membership, thus depriving them of voting for the awards.
The Academy president reasoned that the publicists do their major work after films are completed and thus have no hand in the creative process.

"An eight-man committee headed by Daniel Taradash of the writers' branch was appointed to review complaints about the changes," said an Academy spokesman. "So far only 13 out of the 567 changes have been reversed."

The new setup reduces the Academy electorate from 3,172 to 2,802. Peck believes that the reduced total will be more responsive to what is current in the film world.

But the real challenge lies ahead. Not only must the Acad-

ASBURY W.S.C.S. PLANS BURGEOO AND BAKE SALE

The W.S.C.S. of the Asbury United Methodist church planned a burgeoo and bake sale
Saturday, June 13, at a meeting held Thursday. Mrs. Arthur Cully served as hostess, with Mrs. James Cully as assistant hostess.

Mrs. Frank Hembrough, president, was in charge of the meeting. Roll call was answered by mothers of the Bible. Mrs.
Howard Becker gave devotions.
Mrs. Frank Crawley presented the secretary's report and Mrs.

Arvel Becker gave the treasurer's report.
Mrs. Lawrence Hembrough gave the report of the nominating committee; the same slate of officers will serve another year.

Mrs. Arvel Becker presented Mrs. Katherine Welch, who spoke about China under communism. The meeting closed with the benediction. Delicious refreshments were served.

BEHIND THIS SUCCESSFUL YOUNG MAN THERE'S A WOMAN ...his mother!

Steve Wade realizes that his newspaper route is his complete responsibility. It is his business. But, at the same time, it is a wonderful feeling to know that he has a partner upon whom he can rely for advice and assistance any time he wants it. That partner is his mother.

From Mrs. Wade's viewpoint, the education which Steve gets on his route is just as important, in its way, as that which he gets in school. One supplements the other. Together, they give Steve a head start in life which will benefit him greatly over the years ahead. She knows that in no other way could he learn so many practical things so quickly—and build up a bank account of his own at the same time.

Opening lead—♥ 4

A reader from Mesa, Ariz., asks, "Can you give me an illustration of a play situation where all you can do is guess?"

This question is about as tough as, "Which came first, the chicken or the egg?" However, we will try to set up such a problem.

You are South. If you are playing in ordinary company, you win the heart lead in dummy and play a low spade. East may have a slight problem but he will probably place the deuce without any hesitation at all. You will play your king and West will play the five. You will return to dummy and lead the ten of trumps. East will play the eight. You will rise with the queen. West's jack will drop and it will be all over but writing down the score.

Why do you make this play? Because you know that the average bridge player sitting West is not going to let that king hold the trick if he has the ace to cover it. After all, he has heard that aces were made to capture kings.

Suppose you aren't playing in ordinary company. Instead, your opponents are two of the greatest players in the world. East is going to play the deuce on the first spade lead and the eight on the second with no problem at all and West is going to play the five on the first lead with the same lack of interest.

Each one will know that your only problem is in trumps and neither one is going to help you out.

You also know that East did not start with ace-jack-eight-two of spades. In that case, he would have covered dummy's ten with the jack and been sure of two trump tricks. You have no play at all if West is waiting with both ace and jack. Thus, you have a straight 50-50 guess with nothing at all to help you out.

Noted Educator, Reporter Killed In Car Crash

Milburn P. (Pete) Akers, 70, president of Shimer College and retired editor of the Chicago Sun-Times, was killed Wednesday in a collision of his automobile and a truck.

The head-on crash occurred on Illinois 121 northwest of Lincoln. Akers, alone in his car, was driving to Springfield from Hopedale, where his sister died in a convalescent home Tuesday night. Akers had spent the night in Hopedale, between Peoria and Lincoln.

The truck driver escaped unhurt. Akers visited Springfield frequently for legislative sessions in connection with measures proposing state aid to private colleges.

Akers retired as editor of the Sun-Times in 1965. He was elected the ninth president of Shimer, a liberal arts college for 500 students in Mount Carroll, in 1968.

He was born in Chicago, the son of a clergyman, and began his newspaper career as a reporter for the Illinois State Register in Springfield, later writing for the Peoria Transcript and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Miriam Akers' Brother's Rites At Annie Merner

Miss Miriam C. Akers, 76, formerly of Jacksonville and Seaside, N.Y., died Wednesday at 4 a.m. at Hopedale hospital, Hopedale, Ill.

She was born December 4, 1893, in Claremont, S. Dakota, a daughter of Rev. Edwin Wright and Anna Wilson Akers. She never married.

She attended MacMurray College and graduated from Illinois College. She was professor of languages at Illinois College, Dennison University, Granville, Ohio, and Inter-American University at San Germain, Puerto Rico.

Miss Akers and her brother Milburn P. Akers are survived by three brothers, J. W. of Dearborn, Mich., Edward S. and Joe T. both of Chester.

Joint services for Miss Akers and her brother will be held Friday at 3:30 p.m. at Annie Merner Chapel on the MacMurray College campus with Rev. Ronald Colton and Dr. McKendree Blair officiating. Interment will be in Diamond Grove cemetery.

Friends may call at the Gillham-Buchanan Funeral Home after 2 p.m. Thursday. The remains will lie in state at Annie Merner Chapel from noon to time of services.

Friends who wish to do so are requested to make memorials to the library building fund at McKendree College, Lebanon, Illinois.

Former Greene Resident Ivan Maberry Dies

Ivan Maberry, 62, of Lebanon, Penn., and formerly of Wrights, drowned Tuesday while on a fishing trip in Canada. A veteran of World War II, he was a retired employee of the Veterans' hospital in Lebanon.

He was born in Greene county in 1907.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Howard Pilkington of White Hall and Mrs. Walter Baldes of Greenfield.

Several nieces and nephews, Mrs. Russell Israel of White Hall, Vernon Pilkington of Jacksonville, and Keith Pilkington of White Hall also plan to attend the funeral.

Funeral services and burial will be held at 1:30 p.m. Friday at the Rohlands Mortuary in Lebanon, Penn.

The Akers family resided in Jacksonville for about five years during the early 1910s. He once was a member of The Associated Press staff in Chicago, Springfield and Washington, D.C. and became press secretary to Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois in 1937. In 1940 he became assistant to Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes.

Akers joined the new Chicago Sun with its founding by Marshall Field III in December 1941. In 1949 he was named managing editor of the Chicago Sun-Times and in 1950 was named executive editor.

Milburn P. (Pete) Akers

Akers was named editor of the Sun-Times in 1959 and retired in 1965. He began serving as executive director of the Federation of Illinois Colleges and Universities and in June 1968 was elected president of Shimer College. He was scheduled to retire at the close of the current academic year.

A great-grandson of a founder of MacMurray College, Akers served on MacMurray's board of trustees from 1944 to 1969. He also served as chairman of the board of trustees at his alma mater, McKendree College, Lebanon; and was a member of the board at St. Xavier College, Chicago.

Akers was also a former member of the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

A past director of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, he was named "Press Veteran of 1964" by the Chicago Press Veterans Association. Akers founded the Annual MacMurray College Newspaper Conference held from 1953 until 1967.

A scholarship in his honor was established by the Chicago Sun-Times in 1966 to assist college-bound young people interested in journalism.

Akers is survived by his wife, Beulah, of Evanston, and a daughter Judith Ann, a 1966 graduate of MacMurray College.

Three brothers also survive: J. W. of Dearborn, Mich., Edward S. and Joe T. both of Chester. Two sisters preceded him in death. He was a member of the Methodist Church and a 3rd Degree Mason.

Services will be Friday at 3:30 p.m. at Annie Merner Chapel on the MacMurray College campus. Rev. Ronald Colton and Dr. McKendree Blair officiating. Services are in charge of Gillham-Buchanan Funeral Home. Interment will be in Diamond Grove cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 2 p.m. Friday. The remains will lie in state at the chapel from noon until time of services.

Friends who wish to do so are requested to make memorials to the Library Building Fund at McKendree College, Lebanon, Ill.

Griggsville Unit Finds It Owes CIPS $14,000

GRIGGSVILLE — The board of education of Griggsville Community School Unit No. 4 met in regular session Thursday, May 21, with all members present.

Ray Thompson, industrial engineer with Central Illinois Public Service Company in Beardstown, met with the board and explained the bill for $14,905.08. This is a balance due bill covering three heating seasons since the schools converted to gas heat. CIPS had made a mistake in the multiplier and it was not detected until last month. The above bill was in addition to what had been billed. Cecil Burrows, attorney-at-law, was present to represent the school board and recommended postponement of any action until he could check the legality of the bill through the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Summer cheerleader camps were discussed. It was decided no expenses would be paid unless the cheerleader advisor could accompany them if it was for more than one day. Transportation reimbursement was approved for a one-day clinic.

Approval was given to install new doors in the lower hall of the north end of the high school to comply with the fire safety code. The bid of the Pike County Glass Company in the amount of $823.64 was accepted.

The building committee of the board of education made its report for summer work and repairs. It was decided to have inside painting contracted.

New Teacher

A contract for Miss Sharon Ash was approved for high school English and library. Miss Ash is a 1970 graduate of Western Illinois University and will replace Mrs. Susanne Curry, who has resigned.

Letters of resignation were received and accepted from Mrs. Pauline Moore and Miss Barbara Barr. Mrs. Moore is retiring at the end of the year. She has taught 32 years with the last 27 at Griggsville.

The board agreed to participate in the following federal programs for the 1970-71 school year: NDEA, Title III; ESEA, Title I; and ESEA, Title II.

A letter was received from the director of vocational education at Jacksonville asking if Unit 4 would be interested in investigating the possibilities of forming an area vocational center. The board agreed to have the superintendent secure more information.

A new stage curtain in the old gym was discussed. It was decided to have the architect meet with the board in June before a new curtain is purchased. The new curtain must comply with the fire safety code and most companies do not recommend the type of curtain as outlined.

The reimbursement for the gifted program in reading was approved and signed.

The board designated the Farmers National Bank of Griggsville and the Farmers State Bank of Pittsfield as depositories for 1970-71.

Mrs. Norma Connors was required to serve as school treasurer; and Bertoglio, Mendenford and Company, Certified Public Accountants, of Quincy were rehired as auditors.

Summer Purchases

The board agreed to purchase two electric typewriters, a new sewing machine for the home economics department and a room of classroom furniture for grade five during the summer.

The transportation contract for 1970-71 was discussed and the reimbursement rates of 42 cents per mile for the carry-all and 46 cents for busses were approved. Last year the rates were 40 and 43 cents.

The following teachers were hired to teach summer school during the month of June: Miss Barbara Barr, Miss Nellie Fudge, Mrs. Linda Cherry and Terry Robertson.

Larry Bennett, high school principal, was rehired to coach baseball and basketball next year.

The driver education visitation report was read and placed on file.

The faculty-study reports in mathematics and language arts were postponed until the June meeting.

Diocesan Heads Plan Reviews Of Schools

CHICAGO (AP) — Diocesan superintendents of Roman Catholic schools in Illinois said Wednesday they expect "local public school authorities to come to our assistance in this serious crisis," after the Illinois Senate killed legislation for state aid to nonpublic schools.

The statement, issued after an emergency meeting of diocesan superintendents Tuesday, did not spell out what aid was to be expected.

It said a "workable plan for the coming year" would be evolved after a "re-examination of our schools' financial condition," and consultations with teachers of diocesan schools, school boards, pupils' parents and public school authorities.

The superintendents emphasized, "We will not panic," and added that they would not make "crucial and hard decisions" alone "because we know they will affect both public and non-public schools throughout the state."

"Public and nonpublic schools in most communities of Illinois are inseparably linked," the superintendents' statement said. They need one another to take care of all children in the community. We therefore expected local public school authorities. . . to come to our assistance in this . . . serious crisis in non-public schools.

"Public school authorities are responsible for all children resident in . . . their jurisdiction. . . In many communities public school authorities cannot fulfill their responsibility for all children without the help of non-public schools.

"We intend to emphasize that fact in a most practical fashion when we enter into conversations with local public school authorities."

The diocesan superintendents who issued the statement are the Revs. Robert Clark of the Chicago archdiocese, Jerome Ratermann of Belleville, Niles J. Gillen of Joliet, Eugene L. Finnell of Peoria, Thomas C. Brady of Rockford and Richard L. Pavnic of Springfield.

Map Several Changes For Executive Office

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Constitutional Convention Wednesday voted partial overhaul of the executive branch, including a provision for elections in years when the presidency is not at stake.

Proponents said this would concentrate attention on state affairs and reduce the chance of an inferior state candidate getting a sweep into office on the coattails of a popular presidential candidate.

Post 604 Plans Memorial Rites In Arenzville

ARENZVILLE — Residents of Arenzville are cordially invited to attend and participate in Memorial Day services Saturday, May 30, sponsored by American Legion Post 604 of Arenzville. Post Commander John Schone, Jr., announced today.

The traditional commemorative rites are scheduled to begin at 9:00 a.m. at the East cemetery, he added. From the East cemetery the parade will go to the North cemetery where the rites will begin.

In urging the widest possible participation by Arenzville residents in Memorial Day services, Commander Schone referred to this excerpt from Gen. John A. Logan's original order for the observance of Memorial Day:

"Let no avarice or neglect, no ravages of time testify to present or coming generations that we have forgotten as a people the cost of a free and undivided republic."

Commander Schone reminded that the observance of Memorial Day in Arenzville should include the display of United States Flag by every home and business firm.

Ticket Elderly Woman Driver

An 82-year old Jacksonville woman was ticketed by city police investigating an accident on the west side of the square at 4:17 p.m. Wednesday.

Ethel M. Strawn, of 322 South Church, was ticketed for improper backing. Officers said she was leaving a parking space when her auto backed into a car driven by William M. Martin, 33, of 754 East College.

TEACHER TURNOVER AT MT. STERLING

MT. STERLING — The resignations of two faculty members in the Brown County school system were received at the last meeting of the board of education here. These were from Mrs. Shirley Dadds and Mrs. Nina Hammond.

Contracts were offered Mrs. Barbara Miller to teach kindergarten; Mrs. Dana Briggs, elementary level; and Robert Riggins, English at Brown County high school.
